Plane Fires Homes; Heavy Toll Feared

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A KC135 tanker crashed into a residential area today and the Wichita Beacon reporter on the scene said "apparently the death toll would be at least a dozen."

The reporter said an Air Force chaplain told him he had administered last rites to at least eight victims.

The bodies were being assembled at a temporary morgue set up in the area.

Block Hit In Wichita

Police began patrolling the area with police dogs to prevent looting "and to keep people out so the crash can be investigated."

Apparently at least eight houses burned, set afire by fuel the tanker was carrying.

One eyewitness said "there are charred bodies all around."

Firemen estimated at least 15 homes were afire when they arrived, and they said as many as 75 could be damaged.

Gilbert Roman, a Sedgwick County sheriff's officer who was on patrol near the crash site said another plane with military markings appeared to be following the crashed plane but he saw no indication of a collision.

The Beacon said the plane had just taken off from the Boeing Aircraft plant. There was no indication whether it was on a refueling mission.

One man said he saw the bodies of two children in the wreckage of one house.

A resident of the neighborhood, the Rev. J. E. Mason, said he saw one child literally burn up.

He said a little boy ran out of a house and "curled up in flames."

The tanker was understood to carry a crew of eight, and it was assumed all had perished. The dead children would be additional fatalities.

Statesman In Deep Sleep

Churchill's Death Feared Near; Suffering No Pain

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, 90, feared near death with a blood clot on the brain, was in a deep sleep today, suffering no pain, after a peaceful night under constant medical vigil.

Successive medical bulletins indicated his life was peacefully ebbing away. The latest bulletin, issued at 7 a.m., EST, by Lord Moran, Churchill's physician, said there had been no material change in the statesman's condition.

Anxiety for the fate of Britain's wartime hero stirred the hearts and prayers of millions, from ordinary folk to leaders of nations.

Near Churchill's bedside were Lady Churchill and their daughters, son Randolph and grandson, named Winston Spencer for his famous grandfather.

Daughter Sarah arrived from Rome by plane. Wearing a fur coat and dark glasses, she drove up to the Churchill residence and rushed inside.

Outside, in the frosty streets, a crowd of faithful kept their own vigil. As many as 200 stood there during the day. About 50 bunched in thick coats through the long night waiting for news.

The drama began with no hint of danger. The first word — around midday Friday — said Churchill had a cold.

Some three hours later came the first alarm: a medical bulletin said Churchill had suffered a cerebral thrombosis — a clot on the brain. He had also developed a circulatory weakness.

The old heart was flagging.

At his bedside, two doctors fought for his life. One was Churchill's longtime friend, Lord Moran, 82. As Churchill's personal physician, he had nursed him through dangerous illnesses before, including strokes which felled Churchill in 1951 and 1953.

The other doctor was Lord Brain, one of the world's foremost neurologists.

The doctors Friday night said Churchill was "slipping into deeper sleep and is not conscious of pain or discomfort."

Moran was asked last night about Churchill's chances.

He replied, "All I can say is that he is seriously ill."

Lights burned in the Churchill house through the night, but no word was passed to those waiting outside.

Standing in the middle of a group of newsmen and photographers, today, Lord Moran said: "Sir Winston had a peaceful night. There is no material change in his condition."

40 Pounds Of TNT In Flower Pot

Americans In Saigon Flee Bomb Planted Near Pool

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (AP) — American servicemen, their wives and children were evacuated from a large swimming pool today when Vietnamese police discovered a huge bomb hidden near the pool.

The bomb, 40 pounds of TNT, was concealed in a large flower pot 10 feet from the normally crowded pool. Detonator wires had been led through holes in the pot so that a magneto could easily be attached.

The swimming pool is operated by the U.S. Command and only American servicemen and their dependents are admitted.

"It would have been enough to kill everyone in the place," a U.S. official said.

A Vietnamese policeman patrolling the pool was credited with spotting the bomb. The policeman, Huynh Van Cho, noticed a partly buried American hand grenade sticking through the soil on the surface of the pot and sounded an alert. The pool was quickly cleared and a bomb squad went to work.

Under the grenade the searchers found the bomb. Experts believe the terrorist had been carrying the grenade to protect himself while planting the bomb and then left it when his work was finished.

The bomb could not have been set off unless someone had connected a battery or magneto to the pot.

Casualties from an explosion on a weekend afternoon probably would have exceeded those in an explosion at the American Brink Hotel here on Christmas Eve. In that explosion two Americans were killed and more than 100 persons were wounded.

Deputies Hit Newell Bar, Bowling Alley

The Hancock County sheriff's deputies continued the week's crackdown on illegal activities Friday, citing six persons from four establishments, including the J. & W. Bar in Newell and The Terrace Lanes bowling alley near Chester.

Cited at the Terrace Lanes on Route 30 was Art Lewis, 46, on charges of possession and sale of alcoholic liquor. John Paradonovich, 27, was cited on the same charges at the J. & W. Bar in Newell. Both posted $164 bonds on each charge at a hearing before Squire John D. Herron in New Cumberland.

Earlier yesterday afternoon, three Weirton men were cited for conducting a lottery at the D. & M. Bar on Main St., Weirton.

At a hearing before Squire Herron, Nick Rocknich, 27, of Elm St., Charles Rocknich, 29

Snow Cited For Seven Ohio Deaths

Over Foot Reported In Some Spots With First General Storm

By The Associated Press

Snow and cold covers Ohio today following the season's first general snowfall that brought depths of more than a foot in spots and has been blamed for at least seven deaths.

And there are still more problems ahead.

Additional snow accumulations of one to three inches or more were predicted for the eastern half of the state and very strong northerly winds were expected to cause considerable blowing and drifting snow across the entire state.

The snows are expected to taper off to flurries tonight but temperatures as low as zero likely will worsen already-hazardous traffic conditions by causing freezeovers.

Metropolitan and state road crews are continuing their battle to keep streets and highways passable, however.

Northeast Ohio was the hardest hit. More than 14 inches of snow is expected to pile up in Geauga county.

Cleveland measured three inches of new snow late Friday night.

The Columbus Weather Bureau reported seven inches with more to come.

Three inches was expected in the Cincinnati area and two inches elsewhere along the Ohio River.

The snow tangled traffic and slowed transportation across the state. The Ohio Turnpike was reported snow-covered and slippery with the speed limit cut from 70 to 40 m.p.h.

The winter weather took its toll in lives too. Two motorists died on interstate highways, two other persons —transients — froze to death and two little girls drowned when they fell through the ice on a lake. A Cleveland woman died shovelling snow.

The casualties:

Kendall Stamper, 35, a Dayton truck driver, killed on Interstate 75 when hit by a car while trying to assist a stalled motorist.

U.S. Marshals Arrest 16 In Civil Rights Slaying

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Federal marshals today arrested 16 persons indicted by a federal grand jury which probed the slaying of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., last June.

Those arrested included Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy, Cecil Price.

One of those picked up was Philadelphia city policeman Richard Andrew Willis, 40, who was not among the 21 arrested in December by the FBI in connection with the triple slaying June 21.

The 16 were brought to the federal post office-courthouse building here and began appearing before U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter.

Miss Carter told them they were charged under two acts of the U.S. code — conspiracy to deprive a person of his civil rights and depriving a person of his civil rights.

A crowd gathered outside the Neshoba County courthouse at Philadelphia as snow flurries were whipped by 30-mile-an hour winds.

Newsmen waiting outside were threatened and told "You' better get the hell out of here."

At least two other persons were expected to be arrested — probably outside Mississippi — in connection with the slaying of Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, both white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, a Meridian Negro.

The arrests were made both here and in Philadelphia.

At Philadelphia, 39 miles northwest of Meridian, Rainey, Price and a half-dozen others gathered at the courthouse some 30 minutes before the federal marshals arrived.

In Meridian, when Rainey arrived he waved at newsmen and said "Howdy."

The tobacco-chewing sheriff was wearing his uniform but had removed his pistol.

It was Miss Carter who freed 19 of the 21 arrested previously when she ruled that a "confession" by one, Horance Doyle Barnette, was inadmissable as evidence in a preliminary hearing. The other two were later released.

The grand jury spent two days earlier this week hearing what the Justice Department said was important new evidence. The same jury had looked into the triple slaying in October and refused to return indictments.

The grand jury, consisting of 22 whites and one Negro, also studied more than 50 other cases, many involving relatively minor liquor violations.

Schwerner, Goodman and Chaney had gone to the Philadelphia area June 21 to investigate the burning of a rural Negro church used for civil rights meetings.

Their bodies were discovered 44 days later beneath a clay dam on a farm near Philadelphia.

Cold Wave To See 4-8 Above Zero

Winter's Heaviest Snowstorm Leaves Up To 5 Inches

The heaviest snow this winter blanketed the Ohio Valley with more on the way.

The accumulation from the first severe storm of the season ranged from 2 to 5 inches Friday night and the Ohio weatherman indicated up to 3 inches more will fall through the day until a near-zero cold wave changes it to flurries tonight and Sunday.

The Leetonia garage of the State Highway Department recorded 5 inches from the storm that started yesterday afternoon; the Montgomery Dam at Ohio View had 2 inches, it was estimated the city had about 3 inches, and the Millport weather observer had hardly more than an inch.

Biting winds, which caused much drifting, accounted in part for the variation in the amount of recorded snow.

The Tri - State District had advance warning of yesterday's storm and highway department crews were ready.

The Leetonia facility sent out all 18 trucks late yesterday, they remained on the job throughout the night and Chester Whitehouse, superintendent, said they'll continue working until roads are clear. He reported heavy drifting in some areas.

Gaylord Zellers, county superintendent, said county crews began plowing this morning and ashing where needed. There was some drifting but it was not severe, he said.

West Virginia Road Commission crews from the Pughtown garage also began plowing last night, and Beaver County and state crews were out in force.

The Pughtown office said all primary roads had been plowed and cindered, and crews are now working on the secondary roads.

The dry, powdery snow caused the usual traffic snarls and there were numerous tieups on hills and grades, including the Rogers Hill on Route 7 and the Canton Hill on Route 30 out of Lisbon.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the roads remain snow - covered and slippery throughout the county. Traffic tieups were reported from time to time during the night, including the steep grade east of Salem. Officers said the Canton Hill still was causing truckers trouble this morning. Approximately 6 inches of snow was reported unofficially in the Lisbon area.

The State Highway Patrol at Wintersville reported the highways in its jurisdiction were snow covered and slippery.

City street crews worked three separate tours Friday and this morning to ash and salt city streets.

Crews worked from 3 to 6 p.m. keeping streets open for traffic en route home last night. Director Robert E. Vodrey said.

One group was called out at 9:30 p.m. and remained on duty until 12:30 a. m. for motorists en route home last night.

Another group was called out at 4 this morning to prepare

Two incumbent city councilmen filed Friday with the County Election Board for new terms as at-large members.

Robert W. Sample Jr., 606 McKinnon Ave., filed for renomination on the Republican ticket while Donald S. Hancock, 1450 Pennsylvania Ave., entered for a new term on the Democratic ticket.

Sample has served 13 years in Council as an at-large member and Third Ward representative.

He was appointed as Third Ward councilman in 1951 and after being elected to another term as ward representative was named to three consecutive terms as a councilman-at-large.

He was defeated in the 1959

City Has 3 Mishaps

North Side Couple Hurt; East End Motorist Cited

A North Side couple was hospitalized and an East End motorist was hurt slightly and was cited in two of three city mishaps Friday, police reported.

Slippery streets figured in at least two of the mishaps, officers said.

Paul Craven, 52, of 1126 Jennings Ave. was in "fair" condition and his wife, Norma, 50, was listed in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital.

Craven suffered a possible chest injury and an injury of the left knee while his wife also received a possible chest injury and an injury of the forehead when their 1964 auto was struck by a skidding tractor - trailer which plunged through a guardrail and over an embankment at the W. 3rd St. end of the Freeway.

The mishap was timed at 2:58 p.m., 130 feet west of Persimmon Alley, police said.

The trucker, Willard Davis, 45, of Sub-Station Rd. told police he was heading east between 25 and 30 miles an hour when he saw a pickup truck coming off the ramp near the Newell Bridge.

Davis told Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. that he let up on the gas and touched the brake when the rig started to slide.

It continued skidding until it struck Craven's westbound car and then went through the guardrail.

Craven told the officer he saw the truck coming but was unable to get out of its path.

The Craven car was listed as a possible total loss. Police said there was heavy damage to the front end, both doors and transmission and the frame was bent.

The fuel tank and bumper of the truck were damaged.

Japhros A. Clapp, 49, of 515 Virginia Ave. was charged with speeding after suffering a left forearm injury when his auto struck a halted car at Harvey Ave. and Putnam St. at 4:39 p.m. yesterday.

Patrolman S. E. Hayes said additional charges may be filed against Clapp.

Clapp was headed west when his 1958 sedan hit the left rear and side of the halted 1957 auto of Melvin E. Boggs, 45, of 323 Broadway, Wellsville, the officer reported.

A collision at 5:42 p.m. on W. 8th St. at a Freeway ramp involved a westbound truck operated by Russell W. Murphy Jr., 25, of Erie and a 1963 station wagon driven by John J. Cataldo, 47, of 709 Riverside Ave., Wellsville.

Driving a truck owned by Charles Voct, also of Erie, Murphy told police he came off the freeway ramp onto W. 8th St. when a car pulled in front of him.

He told police he pulled to the right to avoid the car and the truck slid into the Cataldo station wagon.

Cataldo, who also was headed west, said the truck came off the ramp and started around a car ahead of him. The Wellsville driver said he applied his brakes and blew his horn but the truck skidded into his vehicle.

Thompson Park Sled Track Opened Today

With a fresh snowfall of several inches, the sled riding track at Thompson Park will be in use today, along with the skating rink in Pavilion 1, Mayor Merrill D. Hall said.

Weekend hours will be from 1 to 5 and 6 to 10 p.m. and both the skating rink and coasting track will be supervised.

Two floodlights have been installed on the sled track, he added.

The floodlights have been installed on the sled track, he added.

The skating rink was placed in use Friday for the first time since mid-December, but it is the first time this year there has been sufficient snow for sledding.

Robbers Get Cash In Safe Of Post Home

Police today were continuing an investigation into the armed robbery of a custodian at American Legion Post 374 early this morning in which two burglars broke into the safe and a vending machine, escaping with an undetermined amount of cash.

Chester Ice Jr. of Ohio Ave. told Patrolman David K. Mumaw that he stepped outside the post home at 1220 Pennsylvania Ave. at 3:15 a. m. to empty trash cans.

As he came out the door he was met by two men, one armed with a revolver, and told to go back inside, the custodian said.

The gunman stood guard over Ice and the other kicked in a door to the barroom and entered, Officer Mumaw was told.

Inside the barroom, the safe was pulled over on the floor and the combination dial was knocked off. A screwdriver was driven into the locking mechanism, breaking it.

Two money drawers were forced open and the cash removed. The burglar also took money from two charity containers and forced open a cigarette machine and removed the coin box.

Re-entering the portion of the dance hall where Ice was being guarded, the burglar told the custodian to lie down in front of the piano.

After binding his hands and feet to the piano with wire and sash cord, the burglars left by a rear door, Ice said.

Paul Craven, 52, of 1126 Jennings Ave. was in "fair" condition and his wife, Norma, 50, was listed in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital.

Craven suffered a possible chest injury and an injury of the left knee while his wife also received a possible chest injury and an injury of the forehead when their 1964 auto was struck by a skidding tractor - trailer which plunged through a guardrail and over an embankment at the W. 3rd St. end of the Freeway.

The mishap was timed at 2:58 p.m., 130 feet west of Persimmon Alley, police said.

The trucker, Willard Davis, 45, of Sub-Station Rd. told police he was heading east between 25 and 30 miles an hour when he saw a pickup truck coming off the ramp near the Newell Bridge.

Davis told Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. that he let up on the gas and touched the brake when the rig started to slide.

It continued skidding until it struck Craven's westbound car and then went through the guardrail.

Craven told the officer he saw the truck coming but was unable to get out of its path.

The Craven car was listed as a possible total loss. Police said there was heavy damage to the front end, both doors and transmission and the frame was bent.

The fuel tank and bumper of the truck were damaged.

Japhros A. Clapp, 49, of 515 Virginia Ave. was charged with speeding after suffering a left forearm injury when his auto struck a halted car at Harvey Ave. and Putnam St. at 4:39 p.m. yesterday.

Patrolman S. E. Hayes said additional charges may be filed against Clapp.

Clapp was headed west when his 1958 sedan hit the left rear and side of the halted 1957 auto of Melvin E. Boggs, 45, of 323 Broadway, Wellsville, the officer reported.

A collision at 5:42 p.m. on W. 8th St. at a Freeway ramp involved a westbound truck operated by Russell W. Murphy Jr., 25, of Erie and a 1963 station wagon driven by John J. Cataldo, 47, of 709 Riverside Ave., Wellsville.

Driving a truck owned by Charles Voct, also of Erie, Murphy told police he came off the freeway ramp onto W. 8th St. when a car pulled in front of him.

He told police he pulled to the right to avoid the car and the truck slid into the Cataldo station wagon.

Cataldo, who also was headed west, said the truck came off the ramp and started around a car ahead of him. The Wellsville driver said he applied his brakes and blew his horn but the truck skidded into his vehicle.

With a fresh snowfall of several inches, the sled riding track at Thompson Park will be in use today, along with the skating rink in Pavilion 1, Mayor Merrill D. Hall said.

Two floodlights have been installed on the sled track, he added.

Robbers Get Cash In Safe Of Post Home

Police today were continuing an investigation into the armed robbery of a custodian at American Legion Post 374 early this morning in which two burglars broke into the safe and a vending machine, escaping with an undetermined amount of cash.

Chester Ice Jr. of Ohio Ave. told Patrolman David K. Mumaw that he stepped outside the post home at 1220 Pennsylvania Ave. at 3:15 a. m. to empty trash cans.

As he came out the door he was met by two men, one armed with a revolver, and told to go back inside, the custodian said.

The gunman stood guard over Ice and the other kicked in a door to the barroom and entered, Officer Mumaw was told.

Inside the barroom, the safe was pulled over on the floor and the combination dial was knocked off. A screwdriver was driven into the locking mechanism, breaking it.

Two money drawers were forced open and the cash removed. The burglar also took money from two charity containers and forced open a cigarette machine and removed the coin box.

Re-entering the portion of the dance hall where Ice was being guarded, the burglar told the custodian to lie down in front of the piano.

After binding his hands and feet to the piano with wire and sash cord, the burglars left by a rear door, Ice said.

Opens Way For Common Market

U.S., Canada Will Erase Tariffs On Autos, Parts

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada and the United States have agreed to eliminate tariffs on automobiles and new parts, opening the way for a North American common market for the automobile industry.

The plan, announced Friday, will lead to better integration of the two countries' car industries and will significantly lower manufacturing costs in Canada by increasing production runs and efficiency.

Eventually, the retail price of cars in Canada will go down but the immediate effect on prices will be negligible, officials said. Canadian car prices are about 18 per cent above those in the United States.

Earl K. Brownridge, president of the Motor Vehicles Manufacturers' Association, said new and heavy capital investment will be required to obtain the objectives of the agreement.

Government officials estimated the manufacturers, most of them subsidiaries of U.S. companies, would save about $50 million a year. There were indications the money would be used for plant expansion.

The agreement does not include tires or replacement parts. It goes into effect immediately in Canada. President Johnson has to get congressional approval before it takes effect in the United States.

Under its terms, individual Americans may purchase Canadian cars in Canada and bring them home duty free. Canadians who buy new cars in the United States, however, would still have to pay an import duty of 17.5 per cent.

The agreement is subject to review before January 1968, and may be canceled by either country on 12 months' written notice.

Industry Minister C. M. Drury estimated that by the end of the 1968 model year the production of vehicles and parts in Canada will have expanded by about one third. This will mean more jobs in the Canadian auto industry which now employes about 1,000 in manufacturing and another 40,000 in the parts business.

European auto manufacturers who maintain assembly lines in Canada also will qualify for tariff-free exports to the United States, provided their product has at least 40 per cent North American content.

Volvo of Sweden, which has a small assembly plant in Dartmouth, N.S., qualifies under this rule, officials said. A company in Quebec Province which plans to start producing French Renault and Peugeot cars under license this fall also will meet the requirement, information now available indicates.

Barry Aims To Keep GOP Control In Right Hands

By LES SCHLANGEN

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Only a few days after yielding to pressures to remove Dean Burch as national Republican chairman, Barry Goldwater says he intends to keep party control from slipping into the wrong hands.

The defeated GOP presidential candidate outlined his views Friday night to a Phoenix convention of the Arizona Federation of Republican Women.

Speaking to 750 fellow party members, Goldwater said many people may expect him to roll up his tent and sneak away because of his election defeat.

"I want to assure you that's not going to be the case," he said.

Terming the speech his first political address since the defeat, Goldwater said, "I want to help our party. I do not want, nor do I intend, to sit idly by and watch control of it slip into the hands of men who wouldn't do their share when the chips were down."

He said he feels badly about the election defeats suffered by other Republican candidates, but added that President Johnson's landslide victory was not a total GOP defeat.

"We took a good shellacking on Nov. 3," he acknowledged, "but I think out of it came something good. It's difficult to assess at this time, but I think for the first time we have a solid base to work from."

Turning to the "trigger happy" and "shooting from the hip" charges made against him during the campaign, Goldwater said one of his post-election pleasures will be saying "I told you so" from time to time.

"One of the things I was saying was to cut the supply lines in North Viet Nam," he said. "Apparently the word just reached the Ranch because I see that Johnson's finally getting around to cutting the line."

Premier Slain In Burundi, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Pierre Ngendandumwe of the East African nation of Burundi was assassinated Friday outside a hospital in the capital of Usumbura, according to reports reaching the State Department from the U.S. Embassy there.

Ngendandumwe, believed to be a middle-of-the-roader, had been premier just eight days. He succeeded Albin Nyamoya, suspected of being under Red Chinese influence.

Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo had accused Burundi of supplying and supporting Congolese rebel forces with the assistance of the Red Chinese embassy.

Washington officials declined to speculate on reasons for the assassination.

According to the report received here from the U.S. Embassy in Usumbura, the premier was killed as he left a hospital where his wife had just given birth to a baby.

In October 1961, before the former Belgian trust colony gained its independence, Premier Prince Louis Rwagashore was killed from ambush by a disgruntled Greek.

Burundi became independent on July 1, 1962.

The tiny landlocked country, which is on the eastern border of the Congo north of Lake Tanganyika, has been one of the most important Communist Chinese bases in Africa in recent years.

When King Mwami Mwambutsi IV visited Washington last spring he was put under considerable pressure from the Johnson administration to put an end to Chinese Communist influence in his nation.

The king named Ngendandumwe as premier on Jan. 7. He had previously held the position in June 1963.

In December 1964, a United Air Lines Caravelle jet, loaded with newsmen and guests, landed at Dulles Airport near Washington, guided by tiny computers in the jet. The computers guided the plane to the airport's localizer beam, controlled speed and altitude during the approach and descent, then eased the plane onto the runway.

Premier Slain In Burundi, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Pierre Ngendandumwe of the East African nation of Burundi was assassinated Friday outside a hospital in the capital of Usumbura, according to reports reaching the State Department from the U.S. Embassy there.

Ngendandumwe, believed to be a middle-of-the-roader, had been premier just eight days. He succeeded Albin Nyamoya, suspected of being under Red Chinese influence.

Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo had accused Burundi of supplying and supporting Congolese rebel forces with the assistance of the Red Chinese embassy.

Washington officials declined to speculate on reasons for the assassination.

According to the report received here from the U.S. Embassy in Usumbura, the premier was killed as he left a hospital where his wife had just given birth to a baby.

In October 1961, before the former Belgian trust colony gained its independence, Premier Prince Louis Rwagashore was killed from ambush by a disgruntled Greek.

Burundi became independent on July 1, 1962.

The tiny landlocked country, which is on the eastern border of the Congo north of Lake Tanganyika, has been one of the most important Communist Chinese bases in Africa in recent years.

When King Mwami Mwambutsi IV visited Washington last spring he was put under considerable pressure from the Johnson administration to put an end to Chinese Communist influence in his nation.

The king named Ngendandumwe as premier on Jan. 7. He had previously held the position in June 1963.

In December 1964, a United Air Lines Caravelle jet, loaded with newsmen and guests, landed at Dulles Airport near Washington, guided by tiny computers in the jet. The computers guided the plane to the airport's localizer beam, controlled speed and altitude during the approach and descent, then eased the plane onto the runway.

COLOR GUARD

When you walk into a beautiful room, what do you notice first? Color usually, for color plays a dominant role in home decoration, and when you plan your home the color scheme should be given first consideration.

Color, like al decorating elements, is a personal matter. It is well, when you are selecting colors that you are likely to live with for a long time, to keep your color - guard up. Never allow yourself to be persuaded to surround yourself with colors to which you respond negatively no matter how fashionable they may be.

If you are in a quandry about which colors to use, look at a beautiful painting or a lovely printed fabric. Notice how the artists have combined colors, which ones dominate and which are subordinated. This can serve as a springboard for your color planning.

Wallpaper inspired the color scheme for the restful room sketched above. Sage and willow green leaves in a graceful pattern with yellow, brown and oyster white flowers ramble in wayward grace over a background of muted gold. Carpet and sofa tie in with the gold-colored background. Gently curving chairs have muted aquamarine upholstery, and wood chair bases match the surface tones of the contemporary breakfront. Bright color accents have been introduced with accessories.

Color takes the floor in today's smartly styled homes . . . and we are proud to offer you carpeting and rugs in all the new decorator colors. Choose wool in the popular high-low weaves or deep-piled nylon with depth and clarity of color.

Crook's has a large selection of wool and nylon carpeting made by famous Bigelow and Mohawk mills.

Want an estimate on the cost of carpeting? Bring in your room measurements. We'll give you an estimate on the total cost. No obligation, of course.

COLOR GUARD

When you walk into a beautiful room, what do you notice first? Color usually, for color plays a dominant role in home decoration, and when you plan your home the color scheme should be given first consideration.

Color, like al decorating elements, is a personal matter. It is well, when you are selecting colors that you are likely to live with for a long time, to keep your color - guard up. Never allow yourself to be persuaded to surround yourself with colors to which you respond negatively no matter how fashionable they may be.

If you are in a quandry about which colors to use, look at a beautiful painting or a lovely printed fabric. Notice how the artists have combined colors, which ones dominate and which are subordinated. This can serve as a springboard for your color planning.

Wallpaper inspired the color scheme for the restful room sketched above. Sage and willow green leaves in a graceful pattern with yellow, brown and oyster white flowers ramble in wayward grace over a background of muted gold. Carpet and sofa tie in with the gold-colored background. Gently curving chairs have muted aquamarine upholstery, and wood chair bases match the surface tones of the contemporary breakfront. Bright color accents have been introduced with accessories.

Color takes the floor in today's smartly styled homes . . . and we are proud to offer you carpeting and rugs in all the new decorator colors. Choose wool in the popular high-low weaves or deep-piled nylon with depth and clarity of color.

Crook's has a large selection of wool and nylon carpeting made by famous Bigelow and Mohawk mills.

Want an estimate on the cost of carpeting? Bring in your room measurements. We'll give you an estimate on the total cost. No obligation, of course.

The Need Is Obvious

Cooperation becomes more and more the byword for the future of East Liverpool and Columbiana County.

Only through coordinated efforts by our communities, by our leaders, by management and labor and by others can we work out the solutions to the problems which the city planning survey and the regional planning study have begun to outline.

Industrial development, expanded educational programs, better housing — these and other needs are being spelled out in the surveys being made by the two planning units.

The city and county are fortunate in that they are located in the industrial and transportation complex of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. But the proportionate lack of industry in the county has left an inadequate economic base which poses a serious problem for the years ahead.

An unusually high percentage of people who reside in East Liverpool and other areas of Columbiana County works elsewhere, falling into the "bedroom community" classification, one where the people only eat and sleep in the locale.

The work of the planning commissions, the Community Improvement Corp. and other progressive organizations is indicative of the earnest efforts to overcome some of these problems.

But there will be a demand and a need for assistance from all areas to implement the recommendations forthcoming from these agencies. Help from the city administration, community groups, private individuals, county and township officials will be required.

In fact, the county planning commission currently needs the support of other cities and townships in the county — none of the townships and no other city or village besides East Liverpool and Columbiana currently is helping directly to finance the county commission. Yet all will reap the benefits of its findings and its recommendations.

Civic leaders and newspapers have urged cooperation in community development in past years. But this need to work together becomes increasingly more evident as we look backward at the relatively slow growth of the past decades and as we learn of the problems with which we must deal in the decades ahead.

Jaycee Week

Another salute to the East Liverpool Junior Chamber of Commerce, this time as it prepares to join in the international observance of Jaycee Week.

The many worthwhile projects sponsored by the Jaycees during 1964 and previous years speak for themselves. The list is an imposing one.

Mayor Merrill D. Hall expressed it well in his proclamation marking the "week" next Monday through Saturday when he declared ". . . this organization of young men has contributed materially to the betterment of the community."

We'd All Be There

Staid Washingtonians, who watch public officials come and go with the ebb and flow of the political tides, have been wondering what would happen if all the people President Johnson invited to come to his inauguration actually showed up.

They are going to find out this weekend.

All the resources of Washington are going to be pushed to the limit to take care of the crowd. The ebullience of the Texas spirit that bubbles over wherever the Lyndon B. Johnsons happen to be has spread like a contagion.

It started a year ago when Washington began to realize what it was going to be like to have a genuinely gregarious president in the White House. Suddenly, Lyndon B. Johnson seemed to be everywhere at once.

THIS WAS THE same man who had been in Washington as a representative, senator and vice president for many years. But in the presidency, his actions and his attitude were magnified.

He picked up momentum so rapidly that capital observers worried about the consquences of his health. They were to worry about this anew when he had the same reaction to crowds and excitement during his campaign last fall.

In the meantime, the country has grown accustomed to a Texas-style chief executive. Whether he is playing a role, or whether he is one of the dynamic Texans who helped to invent the role is problematic. It dosen't matter.

The Johnson style is now an established part of Washington behaviorism.

The inauguration, following a "warm-up" period of a little more than a year, makes official something that hitherto has been only noteworthy—the Johnson style of White House leadership.

THE OTHER noteworthy thing to be formalized is the vice presidency of the United States. For the first time since Nov. 22, 1963, there will be a vice president.

Mr. Johnson has been able to expand the influence of his personality so spectacularly that he all but concealed the fact the vice presidency has been vacant since the day John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

He kept the country from brooding about the fact the men in the line of presidential succession were lacking in presidential stature.

His hand-picked vice president, Hubert H. Humphrey, now fills a void that President Johnson had been filling with his personal expansiveness. It will be possible to think again of the eventuality of Mr. Johnson's possible illness, incapacity, or death without wondering if the government structure could be maintained.

Mr. Humphrey has his critics. He has his enemies.

But he also has more than an ordinary volume of popular confidence in his ability—confidence built up during his many years of legislative service in Washington and his visible development into a well-rounded public official.

Washington weather is expected to be good for the Long Weekend.

We'd all be there if we could. This is an inauguration to be remembered—Texas style.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: Thanks for relaying the message from the reader who thought your Uncle George was "lost in a sea of relativities."

He is right.

My comeback is that I would rather be lost in a sea of relativities than grounded on the rocks of absolutism.

I was talking, you will remember, about Dean Acheson's advice to our State Department.

The former secretary of state was advising this country to do less preaching in foreign affairs and more politicking—to pay less attention to high moral principles and more attention to ideas that have a chance to work.

THE WAY I look at this, we do not have to abandon our moral principles to do what Acheson thinks we should do. We just have to get rid of the notion that we can impose our principles on people who do not think the way we do. We're not going to convert them.

We are taking our lumps in South Viet Nam because we cannot convince the natives they should bleed and die for what we call "freedom."

Mindless of the difficulty we have in our own affairs with definitions for "freedom," "liberty," "equality" and so on, we are disappointed because millions of little brown people in a remote corner of Asia don't see eye to eye with us about their civil war.

Could this be part of what Dean Acheson had in mind when he said we should pay more attention to what is workable?

If this is the "sea of relativities" people like me are lost in, I accept the indictment in behalf of the lot of us. I do not know what the Absolute Truth is that your reader speaks of. I wish I did, because it would spare me the problems of navigation that go with staying afloat on a "sea of relativities."

Your position is always relative to something else, and even that is not always as fixed and absolute as you wish it might be. You have to know where you are and where it is and what time it is and figure it out from there.

ALL I WAS trying to say was that the Acheson idea of not getting hung up on preconceived ideas of right and wrong might be more helpful in the long run than, say, the John Foster Dulles idea of bending the world to his own moralistic precepts.

It is turning out to be big world. It's shrinking in terms of the time required to get around it but expanding in terms of its problems. We didn't know how complex they were until we learned something about them.

We aren't going to make it over in our own Yankee Doodle image, now or forevermore. that's all I was trying to point out, using Dean Acheson's speech as a starting point.

I am sorry this has caused you to be put in the pillory. It was my idea, not yours. It is a case of guilt by association.

We're not only relatives now; we are fellow relativists. And, of course, we're also fellow absolutists, too. I don't deny what absolutism also has its place—in the right places. What else could a relativist say? Your Aunt Effie sends regards and sympathy.

Johnson Won't Intervene In Strike

By Victor Riesel

Early on the morning of Dec. 23, 1962, the late President Kennedy, then in his Palm Beach home, telephoned the bantam Longshoremen's union chief Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, then taking a hot shower in his New York home.

Victor Riesel

The President asked the labor leader not to take his dockers out on strike. Mr. Gleason replied respectfully that there would have to be a strike — unless, perhaps, he and his high command were summoned to the White House for summit bargaining there. Mr. Kennedy agreed providing he got a no-strike promise in advance. Gleason refused. A billion - dollar month-long stoppage followed.

Now, two years later, with a run-away strike paralyzing Atlantic and Gulf ports against the Longshoremen's leaders' wishes, Ted Gleason has been hoping for a similar presidential call to give him the prestige to end the strike.

It has not come. It will not come. President Johnson has not discussed this strike, nor the impending steel strike, nor any of the other looming labor crises, with union officials, national or local.

THE PRESIDENT won't permit summit bargaining in the White House again.

It can be reported that Mr. Johnson will not intervene in any national strike unless circumstances are so extreme or so urgently perilous to the nation's health and security that delay would endanger the country physically or invite economic disaster. Then Mr. Johnson would not worry about setting precedent. He has not worked out any course of action. But it would be sufficiently extreme to meet the crisis.

However, he knows and the labor leaders know that long before such a peril point would be reached, the Congress would act, as it did some years ago when it ordered compulsory arbitration on the railroads. If the waterfront paralysis continues, Congress just might act similarly in a burst of irritation. This might become a habit.

The nation's labor leaders want no such showdown. They want no such series of laws aimed at one industry after another. So they've thrown their best public relations brains and top coordinators behind Mr. Gleason's efforts to end the rebel walkout. They've suggested presidential intervention. But this has been ignored.

FOR MONTHS now there have been suggestions from high labor circles that the President move into the embarrassing Steel Union crisis.

National labor chiefs have not wanted the contest between incumbent Dave McDonald and I. W. Abel for the $50,000-a-year United Steelworkers of America presidency to run its full election course. Some have been hoping that President Johnson would end the battle inside the nation's third largest union by naming the silver-haired pipe-smoking McDonald to an ambassadorship.

This would end the election campaign during which both sides have set up special public relations offices, hired media experts, opened national and regional headquarters and set up speaking schedules which could match a national presidential drive.

President Johnson has not and will not discuss any such diplomatic move. He has not talked with Mr. McDonald. He will not pull him out of the race nor express, in any manner, any favoritism.

THE PRESIDENT is aware that the Steel Union election set for Feb. 9 could cause a steel strike. Win or lose, Mr. McDonald holds office until June.

If McDonald loses, he will be a lame duck president right at the height of the contract negotiations with the national basic steel industry. With whom, then, will the industrialists bargain?

If he wins, then much of the old bargaining team will be out of office. Obviously there will be disruption. Furthermore, this will affect other mass industries with which the union is now beginning to bargain. In all, more than a million workers will be involved.

There may be sporadic local strikes or even nationwide walkouts by local leaders such as those which hit the auto industry last year.

MR. JOHNSON is aware of all this. He will not intervene. His attitude can be reliably reported as follows:

Free collective bargaining between the unions and the business is vital. There is more involved than personal victories or even mass gains for millions. He and the labor leaders have a common legislative program to push through Congress. Therefore the labor men will have to avoid crises which will antagonize the Congress or the public.

The President has promised to push through repeal of the famous "14 B" — the clause which gives the states the right to outlaw the union shop. He plans to push this through June or July. How can he go to Congress with an appeal for labor's No. 1 demand if the nation has been hit by a series of vast strikes which threaten the country's prosperity?

If they get themselves into a mess they will have to get themselves out of it by themselves—or suffer the consequences.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

During the Christmas season, the Liverpool-Calcutta Ruritan Club sold Christmas bows that were made by the children who attend the Retarded Children's School in Elkton.

Our members sold the bows individually on E. 5th St. in East Liverpool, volunteering many hours of their time. As a result, the club was able to turn over to the Retarded Children's School the sum of $425.

We are proud of this accomplishment. We are grateful to the officials of East Liverpool for permitting us to "set up shop" on the street.

Most of all, we are sincerely thankful to the wonderful people of the Tri-State area who purchased the bows for the benefit of our handicapped children.

Once more, "Thanks to everyone!"

The Great Brainwashing

Education Control Enters By Back Door

It's a fact not generally realized that the largest part of the so-called Anti-Poverty program consists of federal aid and control of education. President Johnson throughout his career has been a master of finding indirect routes to an objective when the main highways are closed.

For more than 15 years federal aid to education in the primary and secondary grades has been an issue in Congress. Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson have given powerful support to many schemes. The opposition of state and local authorities, more recently strengthened by private and religion-supported schools, has defeated the idea in every Congress for there is a firmly rooted tradition in this country that education shall not be directed by a central government in Washington.

FROM TIME immemorial Americans have believed that local control not only permits more and useful experimentation in educational methods but is a necessary means of preventing the minds of children from being controlled by any political regime. There's nothing so deadening in education as monolithic uniformity. It may be added that there is nothing so dangerous to liberty as education controlled by a political regime.

But by one means or another, Congress has woven the federal net around our public schools. In the 88th Congress, 36 bills were passed which in one way or another projected the federal government into education.

The Economic Opportunity Act, the "war - on - poverty" legislation, was vigorously opposed by Republican members on the ground that it by-passed state and local government.

This resistance was headed by Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, Jr. of New Jersey, the ranking Republican on the Education and Labor Committee. A sop was thrown to this opposition by a provision in the act that any program in their states could be rejected by the governors thereof.

Considering the desperate search for new revenues and the public demands for new services, this veto by a governor isn't likely to be exercised. In fact, it has not yet been exercised.

UNDER THE ACT Mr. Shriver has the power to impose school curricula for depressed and segregated dropouts. He is also able to give aid to religious schools under the guise of "welfare."

This raises the interesting question whether we are headed toward the establishment of two school systems — one for the poor, operated largely by federal authority, and the other for the more affluent, operated by local and state authority with some limited help from the federal government.

The argument presented by Frelinghuysen and his minority colleagues centered upon the authority vested in the Office of Education to prescribe, among other subjects, courses in history and civics and also upon the authority given to the commissioner of education to make contracts with universities to have faculty members conduct institutes for teachers.

The teaching of history and civics has a very vital influence upon the minds and outlook of the children who receive it. Prior to the early years of this century, the history texts were factual travesties.

Then there was a change which went too far in the other direction.

In the earlier versions the Civil War was not a conflict to save the Union but to free the slaves. In the more recent socialized books, it was, as one congressman remarked, a struggle based entirely upon economics. Both were dangerous half-truths.

THE LAY PUBLIC may not realize how important teachers' institutes may be in shaping the minds of young teachers. I well remember when at the age of 18 I began my teaching career what an inspiration and source of knowledge the teachers institutes of those days were. We went directly from them to our schools, where we expounded the gospel we learned in the institutes. But these were programs arranged by local and state authority and they varied widely from place to place.

Under the new dispensation the commissioner of education may select the specific universities from which the institute instructors will come.

And since the commissioner and the secretary of health, education and welfare are political appointees, it is certain that the selections of teachers to teach teachers will conform to the policies of a political regime.

Thus, while opposition to school construction aid has been largely based on fear that there would be federal control of the content of education and that opposition has succeeded up to now, that control has entered directly through the back door of welfare.

Changes In Congress

By James Marlow

From the way Democrats and Republicans in Congress have chosen their top leaders in this new session you'd never guess the 1964 election might have had some political significance.

Yet, when President Johnson drowned conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater in history's greatest plurality, Republicans lost 38 seats in the House and two in the Senate. Was this a mandate for change?

Apparently not among Democrats or Republicans in Congress where change is slow, maneuverings are intricate, old favors are remembered, friendships can be stronger than ideology, and politicians in both houses seem slow to learn.

In the House, the depleted Republicans threw the conservative, 64-year-old Charles Halleck out of his job as their leader — he had held it six years — and replaced him with equally conservative Gerald R. Ford, 51, of Michigan.

Ford's supporters gave this reason for wanting the change: They thought Republicans needed a younger and more forceful "image" than the rather languid Halleck who, after his defeat, said: "That's how the ball bounces."

Ford had been chairman of the House Republican Conference, or caucus. Promptly House Republicans filled it with Melvin R. Laird, 42, of Wisconsin.

Laird, who calls himself a "creative conservative," helped put together the 1964 Republican platform which so pleased Goldwater's supporters. In getting Ford's old job, Laird beat out Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, 48, of New Jersey.

Frelinghuysen, considered more moderate if not more liberal, than Ford or Laird, was not discouraged. With the backing of Ford he then tried to get the job of Leslie C. Arends, 69, of Illinois, the assistant leader for 21 years.

The conservative Arends was re-elected Thursday to his old job. This was the first major test of Ford's leadership when he backed Frelinghuysen. So it was as much of a defeat for him as for the New Jerseyite.

One House Republican, Albert H. Quie of Minnesota, a leader of the younger members of his party, said this setback for Ford was "something of a disaster for the already weakened party."

In the Senate, the Republicans changed nothing. They kept all their leaders, headed by Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He has become famous on television for his prose, sometimes doleful but always embroidered with classical allusions or nimble imagery.

But the Senate Democrats didn't pay attention to the election results, either, when it came to leadership. As expected, and there was no contest, they re-elected the mild but popular Mike Mansfield of Montana to the top leadership job.

The fight was over the assistant leadership, relinquished by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey after he was elected vice president.

Here the contestants were Russell B. Long of Louisiana, John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, and A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma. Pastore and Monroney had supported far more major Kennedy-Johnson programs than Long.

But the 46-year-old Long won, even though his native Louisiana was one of the five Southern states which voted against Johnson last year. Long, however, had campaigned for the President there.

House Democrats changed nothing. They re-elected their old leaders, starting with Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

The Need Is Obvious

Cooperation becomes more and more the byword for the future of East Liverpool and Columbiana County.

Only through coordinated efforts by our communities, by our leaders, by management and labor and by others can we work out the solutions to the problems which the city planning survey and the regional planning study have begun to outline.

Industrial development, expanded educational programs, better housing — these and other needs are being spelled out in the surveys being made by the two planning units.

The city and county are fortunate in that they are located in the industrial and transportation complex of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio. But the proportionate lack of industry in the county has left an inadequate economic base which poses a serious problem for the years ahead.

An unusually high percentage of people who reside in East Liverpool and other areas of Columbiana County works elsewhere, falling into the "bedroom community" classification, one where the people only eat and sleep in the locale.

The work of the planning commissions, the Community Improvement Corp. and other progressive organizations is indicative of the earnest efforts to overcome some of these problems.

But there will be a demand and a need for assistance from all areas to implement the recommendations forthcoming from these agencies. Help from the city administration, community groups, private individuals, county and township officials will be required.

In fact, the county planning commission currently needs the support of other cities and townships in the county — none of the townships and no other city or village besides East Liverpool and Columbiana currently is helping directly to finance the county commission. Yet all will reap the benefits of its findings and its recommendations.

Civic leaders and newspapers have urged cooperation in community development in past years. But this need to work together becomes increasingly more evident as we look backward at the relatively slow growth of the past decades and as we learn of the problems with which we must deal in the decades ahead.

Jaycee Week

Another salute to the East Liverpool Junior Chamber of Commerce, this time as it prepares to join in the international observance of Jaycee Week.

The many worthwhile projects sponsored by the Jaycees during 1964 and previous years speak for themselves. The list is an imposing one.

Mayor Merrill D. Hall expressed it well in his proclamation marking the "week" next Monday through Saturday when he declared ". . . this organization of young men has contributed materially to the betterment of the community."

We'd All Be There

Staid Washingtonians, who watch public officials come and go with the ebb and flow of the political tides, have been wondering what would happen if all the people President Johnson invited to come to his inauguration actually showed up.

They are going to find out this weekend.

All the resources of Washington are going to be pushed to the limit to take care of the crowd. The ebullience of the Texas spirit that bubbles over wherever the Lyndon B. Johnsons happen to be has spread like a contagion.

It started a year ago when Washington began to realize what it was going to be like to have a genuinely gregarious president in the White House. Suddenly, Lyndon B. Johnson seemed to be everywhere at once.

THIS WAS THE same man who had been in Washington as a representative, senator and vice president for many years. But in the presidency, his actions and his attitude were magnified.

He picked up momentum so rapidly that capital observers worried about the consquences of his health. They were to worry about this anew when he had the same reaction to crowds and excitement during his campaign last fall.

In the meantime, the country has grown accustomed to a Texas-style chief executive. Whether he is playing a role, or whether he is one of the dynamic Texans who helped to invent the role is problematic. It dosen't matter.

The Johnson style is now an established part of Washington behaviorism.

The inauguration, following a "warm-up" period of a little more than a year, makes official something that hitherto has been only noteworthy—the Johnson style of White House leadership.

THE OTHER noteworthy thing to be formalized is the vice presidency of the United States. For the first time since Nov. 22, 1963, there will be a vice president.

Mr. Johnson has been able to expand the influence of his personality so spectacularly that he all but concealed the fact the vice presidency has been vacant since the day John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

He kept the country from brooding about the fact the men in the line of presidential succession were lacking in presidential stature.

His hand-picked vice president, Hubert H. Humphrey, now fills a void that President Johnson had been filling with his personal expansiveness. It will be possible to think again of the eventuality of Mr. Johnson's possible illness, incapacity, or death without wondering if the government structure could be maintained.

Mr. Humphrey has his critics. He has his enemies.

But he also has more than an ordinary volume of popular confidence in his ability—confidence built up during his many years of legislative service in Washington and his visible development into a well-rounded public official.

Washington weather is expected to be good for the Long Weekend.

We'd all be there if we could. This is an inauguration to be remembered—Texas style.

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew: Thanks for relaying the message from the reader who thought your Uncle George was "lost in a sea of relativities."

He is right.

My comeback is that I would rather be lost in a sea of relativities than grounded on the rocks of absolutism.

I was talking, you will remember, about Dean Acheson's advice to our State Department.

The former secretary of state was advising this country to do less preaching in foreign affairs and more politicking—to pay less attention to high moral principles and more attention to ideas that have a chance to work.

THE WAY I look at this, we do not have to abandon our moral principles to do what Acheson thinks we should do. We just have to get rid of the notion that we can impose our principles on people who do not think the way we do. We're not going to convert them.

We are taking our lumps in South Viet Nam because we cannot convince the natives they should bleed and die for what we call "freedom."

Mindless of the difficulty we have in our own affairs with definitions for "freedom," "liberty," "equality" and so on, we are disappointed because millions of little brown people in a remote corner of Asia don't see eye to eye with us about their civil war.

Could this be part of what Dean Acheson had in mind when he said we should pay more attention to what is workable?

If this is the "sea of relativities" people like me are lost in, I accept the indictment in behalf of the lot of us. I do not know what the Absolute Truth is that your reader speaks of. I wish I did, because it would spare me the problems of navigation that go with staying afloat on a "sea of relativities."

Your position is always relative to something else, and even that is not always as fixed and absolute as you wish it might be. You have to know where you are and where it is and what time it is and figure it out from there.

ALL I WAS trying to say was that the Acheson idea of not getting hung up on preconceived ideas of right and wrong might be more helpful in the long run than, say, the John Foster Dulles idea of bending the world to his own moralistic precepts.

It is turning out to be big world. It's shrinking in terms of the time required to get around it but expanding in terms of its problems. We didn't know how complex they were until we learned something about them.

We aren't going to make it over in our own Yankee Doodle image, now or forevermore. that's all I was trying to point out, using Dean Acheson's speech as a starting point.

I am sorry this has caused you to be put in the pillory. It was my idea, not yours. It is a case of guilt by association.

We're not only relatives now; we are fellow relativists. And, of course, we're also fellow absolutists, too. I don't deny what absolutism also has its place—in the right places. What else could a relativist say? Your Aunt Effie sends regards and sympathy.

Johnson Won't Intervene In Strike

By Victor Riesel

Early on the morning of Dec. 23, 1962, the late President Kennedy, then in his Palm Beach home, telephoned the bantam Longshoremen's union chief Thomas (Teddy) Gleason, then taking a hot shower in his New York home.

Victor Riesel

The President asked the labor leader not to take his dockers out on strike. Mr. Gleason replied respectfully that there would have to be a strike — unless, perhaps, he and his high command were summoned to the White House for summit bargaining there. Mr. Kennedy agreed providing he got a no-strike promise in advance. Gleason refused. A billion - dollar month-long stoppage followed.

Now, two years later, with a run-away strike paralyzing Atlantic and Gulf ports against the Longshoremen's leaders' wishes, Ted Gleason has been hoping for a similar presidential call to give him the prestige to end the strike.

It has not come. It will not come. President Johnson has not discussed this strike, nor the impending steel strike, nor any of the other looming labor crises, with union officials, national or local.

THE PRESIDENT won't permit summit bargaining in the White House again.

It can be reported that Mr. Johnson will not intervene in any national strike unless circumstances are so extreme or so urgently perilous to the nation's health and security that delay would endanger the country physically or invite economic disaster. Then Mr. Johnson would not worry about setting precedent. He has not worked out any course of action. But it would be sufficiently extreme to meet the crisis.

However, he knows and the labor leaders know that long before such a peril point would be reached, the Congress would act, as it did some years ago when it ordered compulsory arbitration on the railroads. If the waterfront paralysis continues, Congress just might act similarly in a burst of irritation. This might become a habit.

The nation's labor leaders want no such showdown. They want no such series of laws aimed at one industry after another. So they've thrown their best public relations brains and top coordinators behind Mr. Gleason's efforts to end the rebel walkout. They've suggested presidential intervention. But this has been ignored.

FOR MONTHS now there have been suggestions from high labor circles that the President move into the embarrassing Steel Union crisis.

National labor chiefs have not wanted the contest between incumbent Dave McDonald and I. W. Abel for the $50,000-a-year United Steelworkers of America presidency to run its full election course. Some have been hoping that President Johnson would end the battle inside the nation's third largest union by naming the silver-haired pipe-smoking McDonald to an ambassadorship.

This would end the election campaign during which both sides have set up special public relations offices, hired media experts, opened national and regional headquarters and set up speaking schedules which could match a national presidential drive.

President Johnson has not and will not discuss any such diplomatic move. He has not talked with Mr. McDonald. He will not pull him out of the race nor express, in any manner, any favoritism.

THE PRESIDENT is aware that the Steel Union election set for Feb. 9 could cause a steel strike. Win or lose, Mr. McDonald holds office until June.

If McDonald loses, he will be a lame duck president right at the height of the contract negotiations with the national basic steel industry. With whom, then, will the industrialists bargain?

If he wins, then much of the old bargaining team will be out of office. Obviously there will be disruption. Furthermore, this will affect other mass industries with which the union is now beginning to bargain. In all, more than a million workers will be involved.

There may be sporadic local strikes or even nationwide walkouts by local leaders such as those which hit the auto industry last year.

MR. JOHNSON is aware of all this. He will not intervene. His attitude can be reliably reported as follows:

Free collective bargaining between the unions and the business is vital. There is more involved than personal victories or even mass gains for millions. He and the labor leaders have a common legislative program to push through Congress. Therefore the labor men will have to avoid crises which will antagonize the Congress or the public.

The President has promised to push through repeal of the famous "14 B" — the clause which gives the states the right to outlaw the union shop. He plans to push this through June or July. How can he go to Congress with an appeal for labor's No. 1 demand if the nation has been hit by a series of vast strikes which threaten the country's prosperity?

If they get themselves into a mess they will have to get themselves out of it by themselves—or suffer the consequences.

Our members sold the bows individually on E. 5th St. in East Liverpool, volunteering many hours of their time. As a result, the club was able to turn over to the Retarded Children's School the sum of $425.

We are proud of this accomplishment. We are grateful to the officials of East Liverpool for permitting us to "set up shop" on the street.

Most of all, we are sincerely thankful to the wonderful people of the Tri-State area who purchased the bows for the benefit of our handicapped children.

Education Control Enters By Back Door

It's a fact not generally realized that the largest part of the so-called Anti-Poverty program consists of federal aid and control of education. President Johnson throughout his career has been a master of finding indirect routes to an objective when the main highways are closed.

For more than 15 years federal aid to education in the primary and secondary grades has been an issue in Congress. Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson have given powerful support to many schemes. The opposition of state and local authorities, more recently strengthened by private and religion-supported schools, has defeated the idea in every Congress for there is a firmly rooted tradition in this country that education shall not be directed by a central government in Washington.

Soviet Seen Winning In Dues Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Signs pointed today to a Soviet victory in a showdown vote over peacekeeping dues — unless the United States gets across its belated warning that this could stop the flood of American dollars into U.N. causes.

A check of the major U.N. voting blocs indicated that at this stage the United States could not muster enough support to enforce the no-vote penalty clause in the U.N. Charter against nations two years behind in their assessments.

If the showdown does come as generally expected, it is uncertain whether it would be triggered by a challenge from the General Assembly floor or a vote call on a resolution. It is believed that in any case a two-thirds majority would be needed to apply Article 19 taking away the assembly vote of delinquent members.

Diplomats who have attempted to assess the prospects believe that unless U.S. threats to tighten the purse-strings take effect, the result will either be U.S. failure to get the needed majority, or a majority so overshadowed by abstentions that it would be viewed more as a blow to U.S. prestige than a victory.

The United States which has been insisting that it has the needed strength to apply the penalty, refused to make any detailed forecast or to disclose the basis for its victory claim.

U.S. Sues For Ban On Literacy Tests

Alabama Sees Shutdown Over Voter Registration

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) "This," said Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, "is probably the beginning of the showdown on voter registration in the state."

"This" is the suit filed Friday in U.S. District Court by the Justice Department asking the abolition of the voter literacy test in Alabama.

The suit, filed by acting U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, charges that the test is too difficult, that it discriminates against Negroes because it is so difficult, and that it should, therefore, be abolished.

Furthermore, the suit asks the court to order that the names of all persons rejected as voters for failing the test be added to county voter rolls.

Flowers conceded that the test "is rugged," adding that "had every voter in Alabama passed this test, we would have the most intelligent electorate in the nation."

However, he promised to defend "with every faculty we have" the actions of registrars in administering the test. He promised to carry the case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary.

Gov. George Wallace has not commented on the suit, though his office says he is "aware of it."

Katzenbach contends that requirements of education demanded by the test and the imposing of the test as a voting requirement violate the U.S. Constitution and the Civil Rights Acts of 1957, 1960, and 1964.

The Justice Department claims that the test, in effect, discriminates against Negroes, while not adversely affecting white voters.

Under most conditions, those persons already registered under earlier tests would not have to take the newer, more difficult quiz. The exceptions would be voter candidates of both races just reaching voting age, persons purged from voting roles seeking reinstatement on the rolls, and persons changing their county of residence.

Katzenbach points out that slightly more than 65 per cent of the state's white adult population registered to vote under the less stringent test, while only 19 per cent of Alabama's Negro adult population was so registered.

The suit further contends that the literacy level required by the test is above that of a sixth grade education, presumed by the 1964 Civil Rights Act to be sufficient for voting purposes.

Chester Hearing Due City Driver In Crash

A hearing has been scheduled Wednesday for Terry Lee Cooper, 18, of 804 St. George St., whose car collided with another in Chester Thursday.

Cooper was arrested for driving left of center as a result of the collision between his 1958 sedan and a 1964 convertible operated by Barbara Anderson, 22, of Hookstown R.D. 1. The mishap occurred on Virginia Ave. near 1st St., Police Chief Harold Davis said.

The hearing will be held before Mayor Harry Abrams.

Soviet Seen Winning In Dues Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Signs pointed today to a Soviet victory in a showdown vote over peacekeeping dues — unless the United States gets across its belated warning that this could stop the flood of American dollars into U.N. causes.

A check of the major U.N. voting blocs indicated that at this stage the United States could not muster enough support to enforce the no-vote penalty clause in the U.N. Charter against nations two years behind in their assessments.

If the showdown does come as generally expected, it is uncertain whether it would be triggered by a challenge from the General Assembly floor or a vote call on a resolution. It is believed that in any case a two-thirds majority would be needed to apply Article 19 taking away the assembly vote of delinquent members.

Diplomats who have attempted to assess the prospects believe that unless U.S. threats to tighten the purse-strings take effect, the result will either be U.S. failure to get the needed majority, or a majority so overshadowed by abstentions that it would be viewed more as a blow to U.S. prestige than a victory.

The United States which has been insisting that it has the needed strength to apply the penalty, refused to make any detailed forecast or to disclose the basis for its victory claim.

U.S. Sues For Ban On Literacy Tests

Alabama Sees Shutdown Over Voter Registration

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) "This," said Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, "is probably the beginning of the showdown on voter registration in the state."

"This" is the suit filed Friday in U.S. District Court by the Justice Department asking the abolition of the voter literacy test in Alabama.

The suit, filed by acting U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, charges that the test is too difficult, that it discriminates against Negroes because it is so difficult, and that it should, therefore, be abolished.

Furthermore, the suit asks the court to order that the names of all persons rejected as voters for failing the test be added to county voter rolls.

Flowers conceded that the test "is rugged," adding that "had every voter in Alabama passed this test, we would have the most intelligent electorate in the nation."

However, he promised to defend "with every faculty we have" the actions of registrars in administering the test. He promised to carry the case all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary.

Gov. George Wallace has not commented on the suit, though his office says he is "aware of it."

Katzenbach contends that requirements of education demanded by the test and the imposing of the test as a voting requirement violate the U.S. Constitution and the Civil Rights Acts of 1957, 1960, and 1964.

The Justice Department claims that the test, in effect, discriminates against Negroes, while not adversely affecting white voters.

Under most conditions, those persons already registered under earlier tests would not have to take the newer, more difficult quiz. The exceptions would be voter candidates of both races just reaching voting age, persons purged from voting roles seeking reinstatement on the rolls, and persons changing their county of residence.

Katzenbach points out that slightly more than 65 per cent of the state's white adult population registered to vote under the less stringent test, while only 19 per cent of Alabama's Negro adult population was so registered.

The suit further contends that the literacy level required by the test is above that of a sixth grade education, presumed by the 1964 Civil Rights Act to be sufficient for voting purposes.

7 Draw Fines And 7 Forfeit

LISBON — Seven motorists were fined and seven forfeited appearance bonds in County Judge James L. MacDonald's court Friday in State Highway Patrol cases.

Janet L. Coleman, 26, of Kensington, $10 and costs for driving left of center.

Paul A. Boone, 25, Lisbon; Robert H. Pierson, 41, Canfield; Lowell T. Phillis, 29, Leetonia, and Allen R. Vance, 24, for speeding.

Forfeiting $20 bonds were Melvin L. Maur, 47, Parma, passing without the assured clear distance; Paul R. Wassum, 48, Valencia, Pa., failing to stop within the assured clear distance, and John Tfthimion, 23, Toledo, passing traffic in a hazardous zone.

Patience Aids The Stuttering Child

About seven out of every 1,000 school children are classified as stutterers. These children are not inferior or abnormal. Indeed, they and adult stutterers are not different significantly, except in their speech and in the way they feel about their speaking experiences.

Dr. Garry Myers

Most stutterers began to stutter long before they entered school, typically between the ages two and four. Studies directed by Dr. Wendell Johnson at the State University of Iowa reveal that on the average, children two or four speak 50 repetitions in each 1,000 words.

He points out that, parents noticing the repetition of words and sounds in the little child, may grow concerned, and in their anxious efforts to prevent or cure this repetition, may only help to make it worse.

MOST parents, and other adults and older children, don't realize that repetition in the speech of young children is quite normal, and are apt to reveal their apprehension in front of the child. This in turn makes the child speech conscious and in trying to avoid repetition as something bad, he does more of it. By and by, he may be called a stutterer by most who hear him speak.

Dr. Johnson has written a most helpful pamphlet, "Toward Understanding Stuttering," which may be obtained by sending 25 cents to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, 2023 West Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60612.

Dr. Johnson warns that no one should do anything at any time by word, deed, gesture, posture or facial expression that might call to the child's attention his halting or repetition in speech. He says it is particularly important that nothing be done to make the child feel he is odd, unacceptable or inferior.

—:—

MOST OF all, the child needs to feel truly the depths of parental love and understanding and that his parents enjoy hearing him talk. It is wonderful when they are calm, quiet, appreciative listeners.

Though most stuttering starts before five or six, it can start at any age. It may come, sometimes suddenly, from severe illness, fatigue. jealousy, emotional shock or strain or for reasons not apparent.

Obviously, the more months and years a person has been stuttering, the harder it is to cure. Yet some persons, with the aid of experts of their own sheer self-effort, do get over stuttering. Some older children and adults find improvement from reading aloud alone daily. Of course, some children just grow out of it.

Many modern schools have speech specialists who help stuttering children. They seem to secure best results when they are able to get parents and teachers and the other school children to cooperate in everyday experiences of the stuttering child. An occasional teacher, when the stuttering child is absent, takes the other children into her confidence and helps them to try to find ways to make the stuttering child feel more comfortable when he speaks in their presence.

IF YOUR child stutters noticeably, try to provide a calm and happy family atmosphere with love and understanding for him. Do all you can to protect him from undue excitement, and to calm him down if he seems jittery. You may need the aid of a physician.

Look into the child's daily experiences. Does he seem to have worries and anxieties and emotional upsets? Are you successful in guiding him with a minimum of resistance and a maximum of cooperation?

Do read to the stuttering child a great deal, especially to the child under seven or eight. Encourage the older child to read aloud alone.

Most of all, try to find ways to make the stutterer feel that all is well when he speaks. Instead of telling him to speak more slowly, set the stage subtly so he will. Be so self-controlled when he stutters that he hardly will know that you notice that he has any speech difficulty.

Child Counseling Center's Dinner To Be Held April 22

Mrs. J. D. Thompson reported that the Child Counseling Center's annual dinner will be held April 22 at a meeting of the Board of Directors Wednesday night at the Mary Patterson Memorial.

The event will be held at St. Aloysius Parochial School. Dr. A. S. Fisher will obtain the speaker.

Mrs. Myer Alpern, chairman of the nominating committee, recommended A. L. Breakiron to fill the unexpired term of the late Glenn Roberts on the board, which was approved unanimously.

Breakiron succeeded Mr. Roberts as superintendent of community relations for the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland.

Activities were reported by Cornell Monda, center psychologist, who said that during January, 52 families will be served. He also discussed case procedure and referral.

Miss Ethelyn Exley, secretary, was appointed to conduct a followup study of the center's clients.

Miss Elizabeth Coleman, treasurer, reported the center received checks in November and December from the United Fund. Mrs. Dorothy Horsley, president, presided. The next meeting will be held Feb. 11.

Carrollton Man Heads Scholar Funds Group

Robert H. Longsworth of Carrollton, former Carroll County school superintendent and state representative, has begun duties as executive director of the Citizens Scholarship Foundation of Ohio.

The total annual scholarship awards by CSFA, with which the East Liverpool Area CSF is affiliated, has grown from $30,000 four years ago to $800,000 currently, William Norris, president of the Ohio group, said.

Longsworth, whose headquarters will be at 43 E. Main St., Carrollton, will direct an intensive effort to extend CSF and its "Dollars for Scholars" drives into every area of Ohio.

Bill Would Change Ohio Station Name

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—A bill to be introduced in the Ohio legislature would change the name of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station here to Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

Announcing Friday that he will introduce the bill Feb. 1, Wayne County Rep. Ralph E. Fisher said the proposed name more accurately reflects the functions of the station, which is under the jurisdiction of Ohio State University.

Church Plans To Disband Closing Rites

Communion services will be conducted at the Wellsville Evangelical United Brethren Church Sunday by the Rev. C. C. Vandersall of the Main St. EUB Church of Mansfield.

Rev. Vandersall, the son of a former Wellsville minister of the early 1900's, has chosen "When Jesus Prayed" as his sermon topic. This will be the final Communion service for the Wellsville church as it will discontinue as an EUB Church Jan. 31.

The church has been located in Wellsville since 1894 but due to a number of problems Dr. E. P. Eberly, superintendent of the Southern District of the Ohio East Conference, asked that the church cease to exist. The process of discontinuing began Sept. 14, 1964. A survey was made Dec. 10 and a final recommendation was made by a committee from the Board of Missions with the Rev. James Bloom as chairman.

The final service will be held by the Rev. James Totsch, present pastor, on Jan. 31. The present membership will receive letters of transfer to area churches of their choice.

Area Grange Fills 2 Posts

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McPherson assumed the posts of juvenile patron and matron at the meeting of the Highlandtown Grange Thursday.

Given the oath of office by Ray Leatherberry, master, they replace Mrs. Jennie Carter, who resigned. James Kessel was appointed steward, succeeding McPherson. An auditing committee, Mrs. Olive Withero, Mrs. Verla Culp and Mrs. Kay Hays, was appointed. Due to infraction of rules by outsiders renting the hall, it was decided to impose a fine for any violations of rules to be provided.

Mrs. Catherine Leatherberry was in charge of the program and opened the meeting with prayer for the new year by Mrs. Culp. The program, also presented downstairs at the juvenile meeting, included a reading, "A Sledding Song," Lynette Hays; riddles, Susan, Rosie and Margie Witherow; article, "Things for Which Granges are Thankful," Mrs. Millie Lewis, and songfest and games. Mrs. Mary McPherson, Mrs. Virginia Witherow and Mrs. Laura McKenzie served lunch to 35. A coverdish dinner will be held at the meeting Jan. 28 at 8 p.m.

4-H News

The Hanover Township Wide-A-Wake Girls 4-H Club met Thursday evening at the home of Miss Diana Balint.

A talk on health was given by Miss Balint and Miss Donna Smith on body structure.

The knitting program was discussed. Each girl is making a pair of slippers. Members were reminded that 1965 dues may be paid now.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and 4-H pledge were given and roll call response was a favorite boy friend.

Lunch was served by Miss Balint. The next meeting will be held at Miss Smith's home Feb. 6 at 1 p.m.

Patience Aids The Stuttering Child

About seven out of every 1,000 school children are classified as stutterers. These children are not inferior or abnormal. Indeed, they and adult stutterers are not different significantly, except in their speech and in the way they feel about their speaking experiences.

Dr. Garry Myers

Most stutterers began to stutter long before they entered school, typically between the ages two and four. Studies directed by Dr. Wendell Johnson at the State University of Iowa reveal that on the average, children two or four speak 50 repetitions in each 1,000 words.

He points out that, parents noticing the repetition of words and sounds in the little child, may grow concerned, and in their anxious efforts to prevent or cure this repetition, may only help to make it worse.

—:—

MOST parents, and other adults and older children, don't realize that repetition in the speech of young children is quite normal, and are apt to reveal their apprehension in front of the child. This in turn makes the child speech conscious and in trying to avoid repetition as something bad, he does more of it. By and by, he may be called a stutterer by most who hear him speak.

Dr. Johnson has written a most helpful pamphlet, "Toward Understanding Stuttering," which may be obtained by sending 25 cents to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, 2023 West Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60612.

Dr. Johnson warns that no one should do anything at any time by word, deed, gesture, posture or facial expression that might call to the child's attention his halting or repetition in speech. He says it is particularly important that nothing be done to make the child feel he is odd, unacceptable or inferior.

—:—

MOST OF all, the child needs to feel truly the depths of parental love and understanding and that his parents enjoy hearing him talk. It is wonderful when they are calm, quiet, appreciative listeners.

Though most stuttering starts before five or six, it can start at any age. It may come, sometimes suddenly, from severe illness, fatigue, jealousy, emotional shock or strain or for reasons not apparent.

Obviously, the more months and years a person has been stuttering, the harder it is to cure. Yet some persons, with the aid of experts of their own sheer self-effort, do get over stuttering. Some older children and adults find improvement from reading aloud alone daily. Of course, some children just grow out of it.

Many modern schools have speech specialists who help stuttering children. They seem to secure best results when they are able to get parents and teachers and the other school children to cooperate in everyday experiences of the stuttering child. An occasional teacher, when the stuttering child is absent, takes the other children into her confidence and helps them to try to find ways to make the stuttering child feel more comfortable when he speaks in their presence.

IF YOUR child stutters noticeably, try to provide a calm and happy family atmosphere with love and understanding for him. Do all you can to protect him from undue excitement, and to calm him down if he seems jittery. You may need the aid of a physician.

Look into the child's daily experiences. Does he seem to have worries and anxieties and emotional upsets? Are you successful in guiding him with a minimum of resistance and a maximum of cooperation?

Do read to the stuttering child a great deal, especially to the child under seven or eight. Encourage the older child to read aloud alone.

Most of all, try to find ways to make the stutterer feel that all is well when he speaks. Instead of telling him to speak more slowly, set the stage subtly so he will. Be so self-controlled when he stutters that he hardly will know that you notice that he has any speech difficulty.

Child Counseling Center's Dinner To Be Held April 22

Mrs. J. D. Thompson reported that the Child Counseling Center's annual dinner will be held April 22 at a meeting of the Board of Directors Wednesday night at the Mary Patterson Memorial.

The event will be held at St. Aloysius Parochial School. Dr. A. S. Fisher will obtain the speaker.

Mrs. Myer Alpern, chairman of the nominating committee, recommended A. L. Breakiron to fill the unexpired term of the late Glenn Roberts on the board, which was approved unanimously.

Breakiron succeeded Mr. Roberts as superintendent of community relations for the Crucible Steel Co. at Midland.

Activities were reported by Cornell Monda, center psychologist, who said that during January, 52 families will be served. He also discussed case procedure and referral.

Miss Ethelyn Exley, secretary, was appointed to conduct a followup study of the center's clients.

Miss Elizabeth Coleman, treasurer, reported the center received checks in November and December from the United Fund. Mrs. Dorothy Horsley, president, presided. The next meeting will be held Feb. 11.

Carrollton Man Heads Scholar Funds Group

Bill Would Change Ohio Station Name

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP)—A bill to be introduced in the Ohio legislature would change the name of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station here to Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

Announcing Friday that he will introduce the bill Feb. 1, Wayne County Rep. Ralph E. Fisher said the proposed name more accurately reflects the functions of the station, which is under the jurisdiction of Ohio State University.

Church Plans To Disband Closing Rites

Communion services will be conducted at the Wellsville Evangelical United Brethren Church Sunday by the Rev. C. C. Vandersall of the Main St. EUB Church of Mansfield.

Rev. Vandersall, the son of a former Wellsville minister of the early 1900's, has chosen "When Jesus Prayed" as his sermon topic. This will be the final Communion service for the Wellsville church as it will discontinue as an EUB Church Jan. 31.

The church has been located in Wellsville since 1894 but due to a number of problems Dr. E. P. Eberly, superintendent of the Southern District of the Ohio East Conference, asked that the church cease to exist. The process of discontinuing began Sept. 14, 1964. A survey was made Dec. 10 and a final recommendation was made by a committee from the Board of Missions with the Rev. James Bloom as chairman.

The final service will be held by the Rev. James Totsch, present pastor, on Jan. 31. The present membership will receive letters of transfer to area churches of their choice.

Mrs. Catherine Leatherberry was in charge of the program and opened the meeting with prayer for the new year by Mrs. Culp. The program, also presented downstairs at the juvenile meeting, included a reading, "A Sledding Song," Lynette Hays; riddles, Susan, Rosie and Margie Witherow; article, "Things for Which Granges are Thankful," Mrs. Millie Lewis, and songfest and games. Mrs. Mary McPherson, Mrs. Virginia Witherow and Mrs. Laura McKenzie served lunch to 35. A coverdish dinner will be held at the meeting Jan. 28 at 8 p.m.

Snow Falls On Capital

Chance Of Good Weather Inauguration Day Fading

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — As snow fell on the Capital today and the chances of good weather on inauguration day grew slimmer, the inaugural committee had one consolation:

"Inaugural weather has been kind to few presidents. If it wasn't raining, as in 1841, it was snowing or just plain cold," the committee said in a look back into history.

The Weather Bureau's extended forecast for Washington calls for "precipitation" toward the latter part of the five-day period ending next Wednesday. It could be snow.

Back in 1841, William Henry Harrison, 68, insisted on riding a white horse to the Capitol to take his oath as president. It was cold and rainy, but he wouldn't wear a hat or coat. When he died one month later, exposure to the inauguration day weather was blamed.

In 1937, Franklin D. Roosevelt stood bareheaded in a cold rain to take his oath for his second term. When he got back to the White House to watch the parade, he found that the President's booth was a glass enclosure. He ordered it removed, refusing to enjoy a privilege those who came to honor him did not have.

This year the presidential box will have a glass shield, bullet-proof for security reasons.

The inaugural committee listed a number of firsts in history:

Warren G. Harding was the first to ride in an automobile to the Capitol to take his oath. Calvin Coolidge's inaugural address was the first to be broadcast by radio to the nation. Harry S. Truman's inauguration was the first to be televised.

The inaugural address is an important part of the ceremony, but not many have achieved historical promience.

Among inaugural words that have come down through history are those of Thomas Jefferson in 1801 warning against "entangling alliances" and Franklin D. Roosevelt telling the nation: "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Remembered are the words of Abraham Lincoln: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in."

And — then — almost 100 years later there were the words of John F. Kennedy: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you: ask what you can do for your country."

Recruit Ends Training

EAST PALESTINE — Seaman Rct. Edgar Adams, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Adams of R. D. 1, has completed two weeks of active duty training at the Great Lakes (Ill.) Naval Training Station. He is a member of the Navy Reserve.

streets for motorists en route to work, the director said.

The cold wave developed on the heels of a brief moderation yesterday and tonight's low range will be 4 to 8 above zero.

The dam, which reported 5 above sometime after Thursday night, had a milder 17 at 4 a.m. today as the downtown showed 15 at 6 a. m.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Miliport, said he recorded 7 above this morning after a 3 above yesterday morning. That was the third time it has dropped to 3 this winter—but there has been no zero reading yet.

Many parts of Ohio are due to get zero or near tonight and brisk winds will add to the bite of the cold and cause further drifting of the additional snow. The winds will diminish tomorrow but flurries will continue.

The temperature may not go above 20 today.

Chester Kiwanis Slates Program For Anniversary

The 50th anniversary of Kiwanis International will be observed by the Chester Kiwanis Club at a dinner meeting Tuesday night at 6:10 at the City Hall auditorium.

Ray Stevens, president, of the Chester club, said most Kiwanis organizations across the nation Thursday will mark the founding of the service club, which was launched at Detroit Jan. 21, 1915.

Some 3,500 are expected at an anniversary at Detroit Thursday at which Edward Moylan of Miami, Fla., president, will speak, and Harry Young of Detroit, last living founder of Kiwanis, will be honored.

Stevens said the Chester club plans to mark the anniversary with a year of "outstanding service to the community." Thomas Ridge will be program chairman for the Tuesday meeting.

Bill Will Ratify Boost In Planning Unit's Size

Council is scheduled to consider legislation Monday night officially ratifying a boost from five to seven members for the City Planning Commission — an aftermath of voters' approval at the November general election that established a new City Park Commission.

The planning commission's membership actually has been boosted already. John Parsons became a member by virtue of his post as chairman of the new park commission. William Rea was named to the other seat by Mayor Merrill D. Hall.

The planning commission's size was cut from seven to five more than a year ago when it was found the maximum membership should be five if the municipality did not have a City Park Commission established by a vote of the people. The electorate's action in November opened the way for the size to be raised again to seven.

Jaycees' Event Open To Those Not Dining

Although tickets are sold out for the Jaycee's "Bosses Night" dinner Wednesday night at the Country Club, featuring sportscaster Bill Stern as speaker, arrangements may be made for persons to view the program which follows the dinner.

Reservations for seats after the dinner may be made by phoning 385-1490 or by writing to Box 723. Reservations must be in by Tuesday, Vodrey said.

Snow Falls On Capital

Chance Of Good Weather Inauguration Day Fading

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — As snow fell on the Capital today and the chances of good weather on inauguration day grew slimmer, the inaugural committee had one consolation:

"Inaugural weather has been kind to few presidents. If it wasn't raining, as in 1841, it was snowing or just plain cold," the committee said in a look back into history.

The Weather Bureau's extended forecast for Washington calls for "precipitation" toward the latter part of the five-day period ending next Wednesday. It could be snow.

Back in 1841, William Henry Harrison, 68, insisted on riding a white horse to the Capitol to take his oath as president. It was cold and rainy, but he wouldn't wear a hat or coat. When he died one month later, exposure to the inauguration day weather was blamed.

In 1937, Franklin D. Roosevelt stood bareheaded in a cold rain to take his oath for his second term. When he got back to the White House to watch the parade, he found that the President's booth was a glass enclosure. He ordered it removed, refusing to enjoy a privilege those who came to honor him did not have.

This year the presidential box will have a glass shield, bullet-proof for security reasons.

The inaugural committee listed a number of firsts in history:

Warren G. Harding was the first to ride in an automobile to the Capitol to take his oath. Calvin Coolidge's inaugural address was the first to be broadcast by radio to the nation. Harry S. Truman's inauguration was the first to be televised.

The inaugural address is an important part of the ceremony, but not many have achieved historical promience.

Among inaugural words that have come down through history are those of Thomas Jefferson in 1801 warning against "entangling alliances" and Franklin D. Roosevelt telling the nation: "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Remembered are the words of Abraham Lincoln: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in."

And — then — almost 100 years later there were the words of John F. Kennedy: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you: ask what you can do for your country."

streets for motorists en route to work, the director said.

The cold wave developed on the heels of a brief moderation yesterday and tonight's low range will be 4 to 8 above zero.

The dam, which reported 5 above sometime after Thursday night, had a milder 17 at 4 a.m. today as the downtown showed 15 at 6 a. m.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Milliport, said he recorded 7 above this morning after a 3 above yesterday morning. That was the third time it has dropped to 3 this winter—but there has been no zero reading yet.

Many parts of Ohio are due to get zero or near tonight and brisk winds will add to the bite of the cold and cause further drifting of the additional snow. The winds will diminish tomorrow but flurries will continue.

The temperature may not go above 20 today.

Chester Kiwanis Slates Program For Anniversary

The 50th anniversary of Kiwanis International will be observed by the Chester Kiwanis Club at a dinner meeting Tuesday night at 6:10 at the City Hall auditorium.

Ray Stevens, president, of the Chester club, said most Kiwanis organizations across the nation Thursday will mark the founding of the service club, which was launched at Detroit Jan. 21, 1915.

Some 3,500 are expected at an anniversary at Detroit Thursday at which Edward Moylan of Miami, Fla., president, will speak, and Harry Young of Detroit, last living founder of Kiwanis, will be honored.

Stevens said the Chester club plans to mark the anniversary with a year of "outstanding service to the community." Thomas Ridge will be program chairman for the Tuesday meeting.

Bill Will Ratify Boost In Planning Unit's Size

Council is scheduled to consider legislation Monday night officially ratifying a boost from five to seven members for the City Planning Commission — an aftermath of voters' approval at the November general election that established a new City Park Commission.

The planning commission's membership actually has been boosted already. John Parsons became a member by virtue of his post as chairman of the new park commission. William Rea was named to the other seat by Mayor Merrill D. Hall.

The planning commission's size was cut from seven to five more than a year ago when it was found the maximum membership should be five if the municipality did not have a City Park Commission established by a vote of the people. The electorate's action in November opened the way for the size to be raised again to seven.

Jaycees' Event Open To Those Not Dining

Reservations for seats after the dinner may be made by phoning 385-1490 or by writing to Box 723. Reservations must be in by Tuesday, Vodrey said.

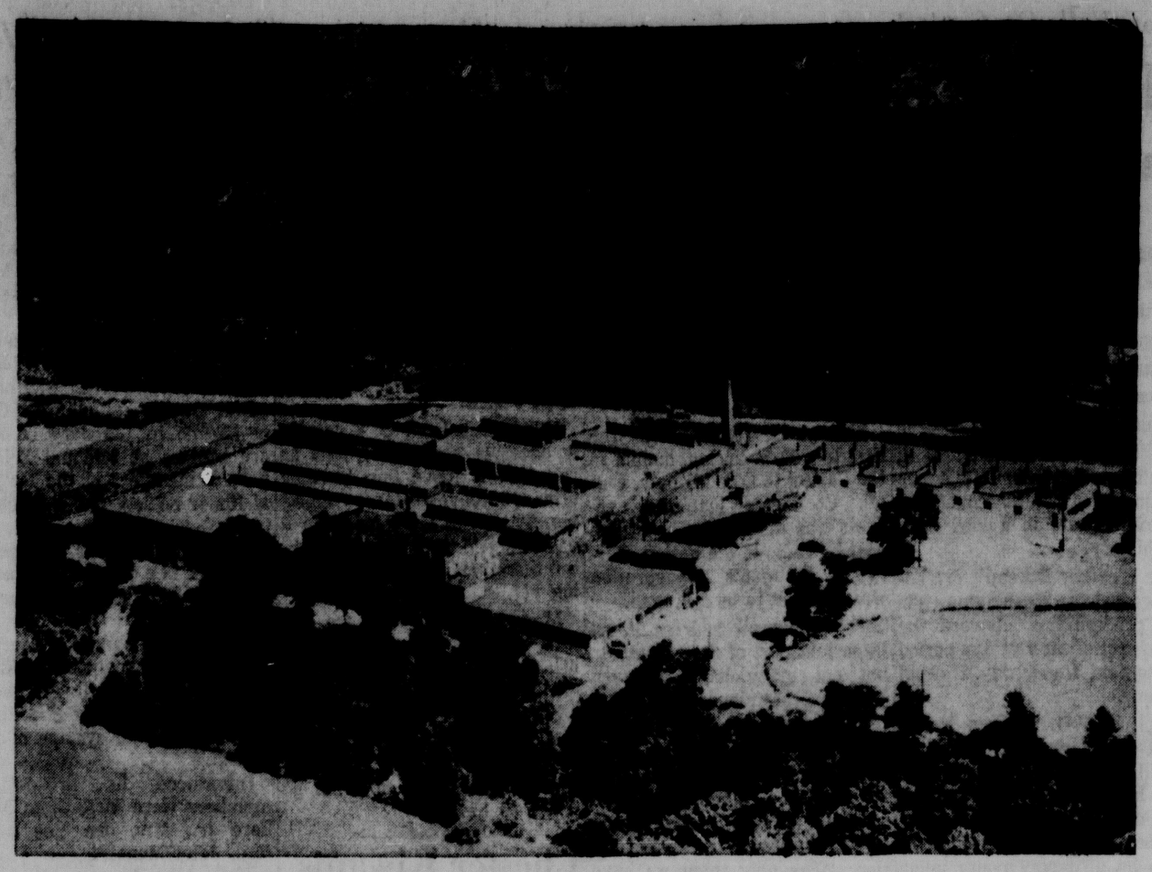
Artist's Drawing Depicts East Liverpool Plant In Late 19th Century.



Present Harker Pottery Extends Along Ohio River Shore In Chester.

Oldest In America

Harker Marks 125 Years In Pottery Manufacturing

A century and a quarter of pottery manufacture is being marked this year by the Harker China Co. of Chester, the oldest continuing earthenware firm in the United States.

The large pottery along the Ohio River in the northeast section of Chester which now employes 300, began as a modest one-kiln plant along the River Rd. in East Liverpool in 1840.

It was built by Benjamin Harker Sr., an English slater who had bought a farm along the river from which he had provided clay to James Bennett, founder of the first pottery in East Liverpool in 1840.

Harker had been putting roofs on cottages around Staffordshire in the 1830's when he heard of the fine land available in Ohio at cheap prices.

The Harkers sold their belongings — demanding gold — and sailed for America with only their clothes and a silk bag containing their fortune. The family first stopped in a rented house in Pittsburgh's northside area where the mother and two daughters and Benjamin Jr., stayed while the father and oldest son, George, went west on newly bought horses to find property.

NEAR CALCUTTA they met Richard Boyce, a farmer who was willing to sell his farm, but wanted to keep the stock and equipment. The Harkers, needing stock and tools in addition to building and land, rode on to East Liverpool where they met Abel Coffin who had for sale a complete farm along the river. Harker doled out $3,600 in gold from his sack and the two returned to Pittsburgh.

The family came down river on a flatboat and moved into the log cabin vacated the same day by Coffin who had left the evening's chores — including milking the cows — to the Harkers who knew little about farming.

Harker soon learned of the crude pottery which had been built by Bennett, and sold clay from his farm to Bennett for about a year. He then poundered the possibility of making pots for a profit and decided to go into the business.

Harker and his sons built a bee-hive kiln of handmade brick by a spare log structure which had been used by Coffin for distilling whisky, and began turning out yellow ware.

Harker had difficulty in producing the early dishes, but was aided by John Goodwin, a skilled English workman who had assisted the Bennetts. It was not long before the small concern was shipping ware by boat up and down the river.

THE FATHER lived only a short time after the pottery began to show a profit, and Benjamin Jr., who had gone to work for the Bennetts, returned to operate the firm with his brother.

The firm for a time was known as the Etruria Pottery Works, and from 1847 to 1850 was operated as Harker, Taylor & Co. with James Taylor, an Englishman, as a partner. After Taylor retired, George Harker was the chief owner.

The older brother died after Benjamin Jr. entered the Union army in 1863, and David Boyce — son of the man the Harkers had met at Calcutta in 1839—returned from Indiana to help run the firm. He had married Jane Harker, a sister of Benjamin.

The end of the Civil War found Benjamin back in the firm.

The plentiful clay around East Liverpool attracted other English craftsmen, and the city became known as the "Staffordshire of America," with numerous potteries throughout the area.

Harker and the other firms in the mid-19th Century made yellow ware, so designated from the color which resulted from the firing of the native clay. A brownish ware, known as Rockingham, was also produced.

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW
Feature Pages
East Liverpool, O., Saturday, Jan. 16 Page 8

Harker won international fame in 1850 when its Rockingham ware earned first prize in worldwide competition at Boston.

The firm did not begin producing the new whiteware until 1879 when the drawing of the first kiln touched off a celebration by both workers and employers who hired a brass band, bought ten kegs of beer and went by ferry from the plant across the river to Rock Springs where they held a party and danced on a wood platform.

THE COMPANY experienced favorable business until 1884 when the Ohio River flooded the plant for three days. Damage from the water, along with the cost of changing to whiteware production, was a heavy financial blow, and several of the trusted employes took checks instead of cash for pay, holding them until an adequate bank balance was achieved.

The firm's officials today are proud that Harker never missed a payroll.

For 40 years prior to his death in 1934, Charles R. Boyce was primarily responsible for the growth and success of the pottery.

Mr. Boyce was respected throughout the industry and was active in community affairs, holding posts in his church, the First National Bank, Chamber of Commerce, YMCA, Boy Scouts and Rotary Club, and was president of the East Liverpool City Hospital Association for 25 years prior to his death.

His oldest son, Robert E. Boyce, started working on a parttime basis at the plant in 1923, and took up his duties as a ceramic engineer there after his graduation from college in 1927.

His second son, David G. Boyce began selling dinnerware in the summer of 1923, and in 1931 — after graduation from law school — started fulltime in sales and distribution work.

John M. Pinney, a boyhood friend and neighbor of the younger Boyces, started with Harkers in 1933 after getting a degree in engineering. He has functioned as employe, foreman and supervisor in practically every department of the factory.

AFTER THE 1949 death of H. N. Harker, president, at 90, Robert Boyce served as head of the firm until he became president of the First National Bank in 1959. David Boyce succeeded his brother, with Pinney as vice president, Atty. Francis Lang as secretary, and Robert Boyce as treasurer.

Both Boyces have been presidents of the United States Potters Association and have been active in numerous civic organizations. They both served in the Navy in World War II. David Boyce has been a trustee of Mount Union College at Alliance for 15 years, and Robert Boyce has been a trustee of Alfred University in New York for some years.

Long an East Liverpool concern, the Harker pottery moved to Chester in 1931 when the officials decided the River Rd. plant and its upright kilns were no longer suitable.

The firm purchased the original plant of the Edwin M. Knowles China Co.—which had moved into its new facility in Newell—and modernized the building, constructing tunnel kilns.

Since then five major additions have been made to the factory which has automatic jiggers, finishing equipment and other equipment for producing up to 25 million pieces of dinnerware annually.

Steeped in the long history of pottery making, Harker executives and employes continue to meet the challenge of present competition and look forward to the future with new ideas in design and production which should guarantee the firm a perpetual claim its distinction as "the oldest in America."

Oldest In America

Harker Marks 125 Years In Pottery Manufacturing

A century and a quarter of pottery manufacture is being marked this year by the Harker China Co. of Chester, the oldest continuing earthenware firm in the United States.

The large pottery along the Ohio River in the northeast section of Chester which now employes 300, began as a modest one-kiln plant along the River Rd. in East Liverpool in 1840.

It was built by Benjamin Harker Sr., an English slater who had bought a farm along the river from which he had provided clay to James Bennett, founder of the first pottery in East Liverpool in 1840.

Harker had been putting roofs on cottages around Staffordshire in the 1830's when he heard of the fine land available in Ohio at cheap prices.

The Harkers sold their belongings — demanding gold — and sailed for America with only their clothes and a silk bag containing their fortune. The family first stopped in a rented house in Pittsburgh's northside area where the mother and two daughters and Benjamin Jr., stayed while the father and oldest son, George, went west on newly bought horses to find property.

NEAR CALCUTTA they met Richard Boyce, a farmer who was willing to sell his farm, but wanted to keep the stock and equipment. The Harkers, needing stock and tools in addition to building and land, rode on to East Liverpool where they met Abel Coffin who had for sale a complete farm along the river. Harker doled out $3,600 in gold from his sack and the two returned to Pittsburgh.

The family came down river on a flatboat and moved into the log cabin vacated the same day by Coffin who had left the evening's chores — including milking the cows — to the Harkers who knew little about farming.

Harker soon learned of the crude pottery which had been built by Bennett, and sold clay from his farm to Bennett for about a year. He then poundered the possibility of making pots for a profit and decided to go into the business.

Harker and his sons built a bee-hive kiln of handmade brick by a spare log structure which had been used by Coffin for distilling whisky, and began turning out yellow ware.

Harker had difficulty in producing the early dishes, but was aided by John Goodwin, a skilled English workman who had assisted the Bennetts. It was not long before the small concern was shipping ware by boat up and down the river.

THE FATHER lived only a short time after the pottery began to show a profit, and Benjamin Jr., who had gone to work for the Bennetts, returned to operate the firm with his brother.

The firm for a time was known as the Etruria Pottery Works, and from 1847 to 1850 was operated as Harker, Taylor & Co. with James Taylor, an Englishman, as a partner. After Taylor retired, George Harker was the chief owner.

The older brother died after Benjamin Jr. entered the Union army in 1863, and David Boyce — son of the man the Harkers had met at Calcutta in 1839—returned from Indiana to help run the firm. He had married Jane Harker, a sister of Benjamin.

The end of the Civil War found Benjamin back in the firm.

The plentiful clay around East Liverpool attracted other English craftsmen, and the city became known as the "Staffordshire of America," with numerous potteries throughout the area.

Harker and the other firms in the mid-19th Century made yellow ware, so designated from the color which resulted from the firing of the native clay. A brownish ware, known as Rockingham, was also produced.

Harker won international fame in 1850 when its Rockingham ware earned first prize in worldwide competition at Boston.

The firm did not begin producing the new whiteware until 1879 when the drawing of the first kiln touched off a celebration by both workers and employers who hired a brass band, bought ten kegs of beer and went by ferry from the plant across the river to Rock Springs where they held a party and danced on a wood platform.

THE COMPANY experienced favorable business until 1884 when the Ohio River flooded the plant for three days. Damage from the water, along with the cost of changing to whiteware production, was a heavy financial blow, and several of the trusted employes took checks instead of cash for pay, holding them until an adequate bank balance was achieved.

The firm's officials today are proud that Harker never missed a payroll.

The Lighter Side

All sorts of errant, bizarre and whimsical things run through a fellow's head when he stares down at the gibberish formed by the letters on the standard typewriter keyboard

Asdfg Qwert

Looks like the five-letter grouping out of somebody's cryptographic message.

Those people who complain about the disappearance of penny candy they remember from their childhood should stop in at almost any small grocery or service station that caters to youngsters in comparatively large numbers. Penny candy is still around; it's the size of the portions that has changed.

Why are those two heavy iron rings affixed to the curb on the north side of E. 4th St., just off Washington St? Probably had something to do with tethering a horse in the good old days, because it's too far above the highest high water mark ever attained by the Ohio River to have been used for mooring a boat!

Television patent medicine ads sound more and more as though they were intended to scare the liver and lights out of the uninformed public, harkening back to the days when the stuff was peddled off the endgate of a wagon by a likeable scoundrel who called himself "professor" or "doctor."

AND THOSE CUTE messages turned out for national advertisers in the mass circulation magazines — sometimes they strive so hard to be cute and indirect that the reader isn't certain whether they're intended to sell a mobile or an automobile.

Certainly everyone must wonder from time to time about the titles of women's clubs and civic and fraternal orders that take their names from some long-forgotten charter member or benefactor. The Hazel Glockenspiel Literary Society and Laundry Exchange or the Henry Chowderhead Benevolent Order of Orangutangs. Really now, who were Hazel and Henry? A bemused public would like to know.

There's the type who walks into a newspaper office, presents a reporter with three bald, unrelated facts on the meeting of his organization and says: "Now give us a nice big writeup, with a headline everyone will notice." And the reporter is hard-pressed to make a single paragraph out of the offering. Sort of like taking the material for a bikini and asking a tailor to fashion a three-piece suit, complete with accessories.

Away back in the dim, dead days beyond recall, an enterprising chemist concocted a particularly virulent brand of men's hair dressing called Macassar Hair Oil. It soon became the plague of parlor furniture across the land. Then another bright fellow—or maybe the same one—came up with the idea of those little lace doilies to protect furniture from globs of goo. And that's how the word antimacassar passed into the language. . . .

North of the equator, water flowing out of a drain turns in a clockwise spiral, but in the southern hemisphere it twists in the opposite direction. But why? Try that on your sixth grade science teacher.

When a woman buys perfume, is she swayed principally by the provocative name or a whiff of the essence itself? If two high quality perfumes were bottled under different names and offered at the same price side by side, would "Chicago River Cruise" sell as well as "Hawaiian Honyemoon?"

The younger generation has been horrified by suggestions in the State Legislature to fix the minimum age for a driver's license at 18. Their parents can remember when driver's licenses were spread very thin among teen-agers. A few boys had the permits; almost no girls. And the boys were allowed to use the family car only on such once-in-a-lifetime occasions as the junior-senior prom.

In this supposedly enlightened age, why do so many otherwise literate people insist on spelling the name of the horse soldiers' unit "calvary," confusing cavalry with the hill where Christ died?

And who dreams up the names for the high-priced brands? Could it be the same fellow who gives compelling, exotic titles to mail-order subdivisions 40 miles from nowhere in the desert of the Southwest?

AN ADVERTISING copy-writer once confided that turning out prose in praise of burgeoning beer brands is one of the toughest assignments a word merchant can tackle. The products are essentially the same and how many different ways can you say "light," "full-bodied," "refreshing" or "inviting." And the writer must put out of his mind completely that just one too many of those thirst-quenching draughts can lead to plain old stupefication.

Speaking of commercials and such, many radio and television copy writers fall back on phoenetic spelling, particularly on that gaggle of French words used to describe various items of milady's camouflage. For instance, faille comes out "file" in the announcer's copy in the hope of correct pronunciation.

Someday radio news wire services will adopt the same sensible idea and La Jolla, Calif., will move on the ticker as "La Hoya" and Lake Tahoe will be spelled "Lake Tawho." Junta will come out "hoonta" and Tiajuana will become "Teeawana."

But what about Wapakoneta and Gallipolis? Or Punxsutawney, Pocatello or Pimlico?

Homegrown Oranges Sampled Amid Snow By Chester Family

Oranges and snowballs are rarely produced in the same environment, but a Chester family has been taking advantage of both home-grown varieties in recent weeks.

A sizeable representative of Florida's noted fruit is held by Mike Juszczak, 8, left, while his twin brother, John, matches it with a firm ball of West Virginia snow.

The orange was one of seven big ones taken from a small tree in a greenhouse of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Juszczak of 3rd St. Ext., just south of the Chester city limits.

The tree, now about 3 feet tall, was grown by the family from a small 7-inch seedling brought from Florida seven years ago and given to them by a friend.

It began to bloom in April, and the Juszczaks began to sample the juicy sweet citrus harvest in December.

Juszczak, an employe of the Globe Brick Co., began raising flowers and plants in his greenhouse as a hobby.

The orange held by Mike was picked this week, and marks the end of the current crop. However, the tree bloomed again early this month, its white blossoms filling the greenhouse with fragrance and the promise of more Hancock County oranges in the months ahead.

You And The Law

The passing of property to heirs is one of man's oldest transactions. As far back as the Egyptian, Assyrian and Jewish civilizations, we have examples of wills written and witnessed on papyrus, clay tablets and other materials.

The Hammurabi code (2100 B.C.) permitted a father by deed to favor his son.

Under early Roman law the head of a house could tell the patrician assembly his wishes. Later Roman law favored a written will to keep the testator's plans secret until death. It also favored having a firm record of his wishes, not resting on memory.

BY 1200 A.D., the English law of wills, was well advanced. Our body of law stems from the English system. The church courts (like our probate courts), supervised disposition of property according to a "testament" of how the testator wanted his property to go.

Church courts supervised personal property (movables like armor or personal effects); land was passed on by wills which the king's court handled. Hence, today we speak of "last will and testament" since English courts came to pass on both real and personal property, so that one court could handle the whole estate.

English church courts had "executors" who carried out one's testament. To die "intestate" (without a testament) was almost like dying unconfessed. Sometimes the church in the interests of a man's soul could give some of the man's goods to others besides his family.

BY THE TIME of the American Colonies, the laws were well settled, and law courts, rather than church courts, administered and distributed estates here.

Today, with the modern complexities of various types of property, taxes, stocks, etc., it is wise if a person has a will drafted. This will assure that his property will be distributed according to his wishes after he dies. How a person wants his property distributed and how the court must do it in cases where there is no will, have left many hurt feelings.

(This article is based upon the law of Ohio. It is not intended to advise anyone on a specific problem. No person should ever attempt to apply or interpret any law without the advice of a lawyer.)

Stamps In The News

The United Nations will issue a new commemorative on Jan. 25 honoring the U.N. Special Fund. This fund was started in 1959 and is the U.N.'s largest program of technical cooperation to speed economic growth and social advancement in the low income countries. More than 100 countries are involved in the program.

The design for this new stamp depicts a key on which the United Nations emblem is superimposed, and a globe of the world over which lines are shown representing the years of progress made by the Special Fund since its inception. It was designed by Rashid-ud Din of Pakistan.

The 5 cents will be light green, dark blue, red and yellow. The 11 cents will be light blue, dark blue, red and yellow.

Collectors desiring first - day covers may send their envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed (either money order or certified check) to the United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, New York. The outside envelope should be marked "FDC—Fund."

U.S. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has announced plans to issue six new postage stamps in 1965. These honor: Herbert Hoover, traffic safety, the Salvation Army, the Magna Charta, Dante Alighieri and one will bear a reproduction of a John Singleton Copley painting in continuance of the American painting series. Also to be issued will be a commemorative postal card honoring the U.S. Coast Guard's 175th anniversary. Dates, designs and first-day locations will be announced later.

Health, Safety Tips

"Exercise is one of the important factors contributing to total fitness," says a new pamphlets of the American Medical Association.

To assist you in planning a program of regular exercise, the AMA offers a number of suggestions.

An exercise program should be started at an early age and continued throughout life, with certain adjustments from time to time as life advances and needs, interests and capabilities change. The amount of vigorous exercise that is desirable each day is largely an individual matter, with recommendations ranging from 30 minutes to an hour as a minimum.

SOMETHING of interest for every individual can be found to make exercise satisfying and enjoyable. In addition to many sports, the variety of choices includes daily habits such as walking and gardening.

Hard, fast, sustained or highly competitive games and sports should not be played by persons of any age unless they have attained an appropriate state of fitness through regular training. All persons should be found by medical examination to be organically sound before training for competition or other strenuous exercise.

If you're out of training, don't try to keep pace in any vigorous sport with an individual who is properly conditioned through regular training. Being in condition for one sport doesn't necessarily mean you're in condition for another. If you've been long out of training, you will need a period of gradual conditioning to get back to strenuous activity.

How can you tell whether your exercise program is too strenuous? If breathlessness and pounding of the heart don't subside within 10 minutes after exercise, if marked weakness or fatigue persists two hours later, if you're still fatigued the next day, then you have overdone it.

IF YOU'RE beginning to become active again after illness or injury, medical supervision of the effects of exercise is essential. If you are competing in body contact sports, or in sports requiring great endurance and strength, pick on someone your own size and strength.

Don't try to stand up to someone much larger, stronger or more skilled. Body contact sports require protective equipment, and it's very important that the equipment be good. Careful preparation and maintenance of playing fields and other sports arenas are essential to reduction of injuries and full enjoyment of the activity.

Contributions of exercise to fitness include a sense of well-being, and development and maintenance of strength, speed, agility, endurance and skill. Each individual differs in his capacity to enjoy and benefit from exercise.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What is the best way to iron embroidery?

A.—Turn it face down on a turkish towel, then press on the wrong side. This brings out the depth, instead of flattening it. Use this same method for braided trimming.

Q.—How can I prevent leather upholstery from drying out and cracking?

A.—Rub it occasionally (once or twice a year) with castor oil, neat's-foot oil, or a good commercial leather conditioner. On light-colored leathers, use a white conditioner or white petroleum jelly, since most oils tend to darken leather. After rubbing the oil well in with your fingertips, wipe off every trace with a soft cloth. If using neat's-foot oil, remember that, while it is an excellent leather conditioner, it leaves a dull, rather than glossy, finish.

Q.—How can I improvise an ink blotter when the real thing is not at hand?

A.—Reach into your box of facial tissues. The loosely-packed fibers of these tissues absorb ink even faster than some blotters.

A sizeable representative of Florida's noted fruit is held by Mike Juszczak, 8, left, while his twin brother, John, matches it with a firm ball of West Virginia snow.

The orange was one of seven big ones taken from a small tree in a greenhouse of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Juszczak of 3rd St. Ext., just south of the Chester city limits.

The tree, now about 3 feet tall, was grown by the family from a small 7-inch seedling brought from Florida seven years ago and given to them by a friend.

It began to bloom in April, and the Juszczaks began to sample the juicy sweet citrus harvest in December.

Juszczak, an employe of the Globe Brick Co., began raising flowers and plants in his greenhouse as a hobby.

The orange held by Mike was picked this week, and marks the end of the current crop. However, the tree bloomed again early this month, its white blossoms filling the greenhouse with fragrance and the promise of more Hancock County oranges in the months ahead.

You And The Law

The passing of property to heirs is one of man's oldest transactions. As far back as the Egyptian, Assyrian and Jewish civilizations, we have examples of wills written and witnessed on papyrus, clay tablets and other materials.

The Hammurabi code (2100 B.C.) permitted a father by deed to favor his son.

Under early Roman law the head of a house could tell the patrician assembly his wishes. Later Roman law favored a written will to keep the testator's plans secret until death. It also favored having a firm record of his wishes, not resting on memory.

BY 1200 A.D., the English law of wills, was well advanced. Our body of law stems from the English system. The church courts (like our probate courts), supervised disposition of property according to a "testament" of how the testator wanted his property to go.

Church courts supervised personal property (movables like armor or personal effects); land was passed on by wills which the king's court handled. Hence, today we speak of "last will and testament" since English courts came to pass on both real and personal property, so that one court could handle the whole estate.

English church courts had "executors" who carried out one's testament. To die "intestate" (without a testament) was almost like dying unconfessed. Sometimes the church in the interests of a man's soul could give some of the man's goods to others besides his family.

BY THE TIME of the American Colonies, the laws were well settled, and law courts, rather than church courts, administered and distributed estates here.

Today, with the modern complexities of various types of property, taxes, stocks, etc., it is wise if a person has a will drafted. This will assure that his property will be distributed according to his wishes after he dies. How a person wants his property distributed and how the court must do it in cases where there is no will, have left many hurt feelings.

Stamps In The News

The United Nations will issue a new commemorative on Jan. 25 honoring the U.N. Special Fund. This fund was started in 1959 and is the U.N.'s largest program of technical cooperation to speed economic growth and social advancement in the low income countries. More than 100 countries are involved in the program.

The design for this new stamp depicts a key on which the United Nations emblem is superimposed, and a globe of the world over which lines are shown representing the years of progress made by the Special Fund since its inception. It was designed by Rashid-ud Din of Pakistan.

The 5 cents will be light green, dark blue, red and yellow. The 11 cents will be light blue, dark blue, red and yellow.

Collectors desiring first - day covers may send their envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed (either money order or certified check) to the United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, New York. The outside envelope should be marked "FDC—Fund."

U.S. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has announced plans to issue six new postage stamps in 1965. These honor: Herbert Hoover, traffic safety, the Salvation Army, the Magna Charta, Dante Alighieri and one will bear a reproduction of a John Singleton Copley painting in continuance of the American painting series. Also to be issued will be a commemorative postal card honoring the U.S. Coast Guard's 175th anniversary. Dates, designs and first-day locations will be announced later.

Health, Safety Tips

"Exercise is one of the important factors contributing to total fitness," says a new pamphlets of the American Medical Association.

To assist you in planning a program of regular exercise, the AMA offers a number of suggestions.

An exercise program should be started at an early age and continued throughout life, with certain adjustments from time to time as life advances and needs, interests and capabilities change. The amount of vigorous exercise that is desirable each day is largely an individual matter, with recommendations ranging from 30 minutes to an hour as a minimum.

SOMETHING of interest for every individual can be found to make exercise satisfying and enjoyable. In addition to many sports, the variety of choices includes daily habits such as walking and gardening.

Hard, fast, sustained or highly competitive games and sports should not be played by persons of any age unless they have attained an appropriate state of fitness through regular training. All persons should be found by medical examination to be organically sound before training for competition or other strenuous exercise.

If you're out of training, don't try to keep pace in any vigorous sport with an individual who is properly conditioned through regular training. Being in condition for one sport doesn't necessarily mean you're in condition for another. If you've been long out of training, you will need a period of gradual conditioning to get back to strenuous activity.

How can you tell whether your exercise program is too strenuous? If breathlessness and pounding of the heart don't subside within 10 minutes after exercise, if marked weakness or fatigue persists two hours later, if you're still fatigued the next day, then you have overdone it.

IF YOU'RE beginning to become active again after illness or injury, medical supervision of the effects of exercise is essential. If you are competing in body contact sports, or in sports requiring great endurance and strength, pick on someone your own size and strength.

Don't try to stand up to someone much larger, stronger or more skilled. Body contact sports require protective equipment, and it's very important that the equipment be good. Careful preparation and maintenance of playing fields and other sports arenas are essential to reduction of injuries and full enjoyment of the activity.

Contributions of exercise to fitness include a sense of well-being, and development and maintenance of strength, speed, agility, endurance and skill. Each individual differs in his capacity to enjoy and benefit from exercise.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What is the best way to iron embroidery?

A.—Turn it face down on a turkish towel, then press on the wrong side. This brings out the depth, instead of flattening it. Use this same method for braided trimming.

Q.—How can I prevent leather upholstery from drying out and cracking?

A.—Rub it occasionally (once or twice a year) with castor oil, neat's-foot oil, or a good commercial leather conditioner. On light-colored leathers, use a white conditioner or white petroleum jelly, since most oils tend to darken leather. After rubbing the oil well in with your fingertips, wipe off every trace with a soft cloth. If using neat's-foot oil, remember that, while it is an excellent leather conditioner, it leaves a dull, rather than glossy, finish.

Q.—How can I improvise an ink blotter when the real thing is not at hand?

A.—Reach into your box of facial tissues. The loosely-packed fibers of these tissues absorb ink even faster than some blotters.

Nets 24 In 6th Straight; South Invades Tonight

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Just when it looked as if the East Liverpool Potters had stretched their winning streak as far as they could, senior Frank Taylor and sophomore sub Vern Smith sparked a second-half rally that led to an important, 65-62, victory over Steubenville Big Red Friday night.

An enthusiastic crowd of some 1,400 turned out at Memorial Auditorium to see the Potters come from behind and push their victory streak to six in a row.

The win was the biggest of the season to date and most impressive for first-year head coach Frank Chan. The contest also may have some bearing on how the Blue and White will fare in the Sectional Class AA tournament next month, since Big Red was and still must be considered the team to beat in tourney play.

—:—

THE POTTERS, who keep improving with every game and come up with new heroes in each battle, will try to increase the victory streak to seven tonight when Youngstown South invades the M-A.

While East Liverpool was winning, Coach Pete Popovich's Youngstown team dropped a heartbreaking, 66-60, double overtime loss to Youngstown Rayen. South will bring a 3-4 record here.

The 6-1 Taylor played the finest game of his two-year varsity career Friday. Finding he couldn't hit from the outside with much consistency, he was a terror in the second half as he began driving for the basket and was either making points or being fouled.

—:—

HE SCORED 9 points in the third quarter and 10 more in the crucial final period. He made 8 of 16 shots in the second half. Besides scoring, Taylor was jumping well and managed to pull down 16 rebounds.

Taylor had scored only one point up until late in the second quarter when he began to drive. He dropped in two field goals in the last minute of the first half, then took command in the second half. He wound up with 24 points.

A three-point play by Smith was the big difference in the closing minutes if the game.

East Liverpool trailed 58-57 when Smith drove in off a fast break, made the basket and was fouled. His basket and foul put the Potters in front 60-58, and they held the lead the rest of the way.

—:—

WITH 2:26 to go, Taylor scored to push the margin to 62-58. Big Red's John Reda brought the count to 62-60, but Smith converted a foul for a 63-60 lead.

After Big Red missed on several attempts, Taylor scored with 1:18 to go to give the Potters a five-point edge, 65-60. Reda got one more field goal for the visitors, but the Potters held the ball as the clock ticked off the remaining seconds.

The Big 8 Conference victory was the second in four games for the Potters, while Big Red is .500 for the season at 4-4.

East Liverpool had things pretty much its own way in the first period and even held a 11-4 lead, but Big Red came back and the margin was cut to 17-14 at the end of the opening period.

—:—

MIDWAY through the second quarter, Big Red, paced by the deadly shooting of Harry Reynolds who scored 15 points in the first half, went in front 26-25 and took a 34-30 lead to the lockerroom at halftime.

The Potters trailed by five points most of the way through the third quarter, but with Taylor leading the charge pulled to within two points, 49-47, as Smith sank a field goal at the buzzer ending the third period.

—:—

WITH 7:30 remaining in the game, Taylor tied the score at 49-49. But Big Red grabbed another lead and held it until Smith performed his three-point play.

Nets 24 In 6th Straight; South Invades Tonight

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Just when it looked as if the East Liverpool Potters had stretched their winning streak as far as they could, senior Frank Taylor and sophomore sub Vern Smith sparked a second-half rally that led to an important, 65-62, victory over Steubenville Big Red Friday night.

An enthusiastic crowd of some 1,400 turned out at Memorial Auditorium to see the Potters come from behind and push their victory streak to six in a row.

The win was the biggest of the season to date and most impressive for first-year head coach Frank Chan. The contest also may have some bearing on how the Blue and White will fare in the Sectional Class AA tournament next month, since Big Red was and still must be considered the team to beat in tourney play.

—:—

THE POTTERS, who keep improving with every game and come up with new heroes in each battle, will try to increase the victory streak to seven tonight when Youngstown South invades the M-A.

While East Liverpool was winning, Coach Pete Popovich's Youngstown team dropped a heartbreaking, 66-60, double overtime loss to Youngstown Rayen. South will bring a 3-4 record here.

The 6-1 Taylor played the finest game of his two-year varsity career Friday. Finding he couldn't hit from the outside with much consistency, he was a terror in the second half as he began driving for the basket and was either making points or being fouled.

—:—

HE SCORED 9 points in the third quarter and 10 more in the crucial final period. He made 8 of 16 shots in the second half. Besides scoring, Taylor was jumping well and managed to pull down 16 rebounds.

Taylor had scored only one point up until late in the second quarter when he began to drive. He dropped in two field goals in the last minute of the first half, then took command in the second half. He wound up with 24 points.

A three-point play by Smith was the big difference in the closing minutes if the game.

East Liverpool trailed 58-57 when Smith drove in off a fast break, made the basket and was fouled. His basket and foul put the Potters in front 60-58, and they held the lead the rest of the way.

—:—

WITH 2:26 to go, Taylor scored to push the margin to 62-58. Big Red's John Reda brought the count to 62-60, but Smith converted a foul for a 63-60 lead.

After Big Red missed on several attempts, Taylor scored with 1:18 to go to give the Potters a five-point edge, 65-60. Reda got one more field goal for the visitors, but the Potters held the ball as the clock ticked off the remaining seconds.

The Big 8 Conference victory was the second in four games for the Potters, while Big Red is .500 for the season at 4-4.

East Liverpool had things pretty much its own way in the first period and even held a 11-4 lead, but Big Red came back and the margin was cut to 17-14 at the end of the opening period.

—:—

MIDWAY through the second quarter, Big Red, paced by the deadly shooting of Harry Reynolds who scored 15 points in the first half, went in front 26-25 and took a 34-30 lead to the lockerroom at halftime.

The Potters trailed by five points most of the way through the third quarter, but with Taylor leading the charge pulled to within two points, 49-47, as Smith sank a field goal at the buzzer ending the third period.

—:—

WITH 7:30 remaining in the game, Taylor tied the score at 49-49. But Big Red grabbed another lead and held it until Smith performed his three-point play.

Smith scored six important points in the fourth period.

East Liverpool's shooting percentage was 35 on 28 of 79 attempts, while Big Red had the same number of field goals making 28 of 74 for 37 per cent.

—:—

COACH Walt Owens kept his team in a press throughout the game, but it didn't seem to bother the Potters too much.

Bruins Rack Up 12 Straight

Illinois May Have Spoiled UCLA 2nd 30-Win Streak

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

More and more it is beginning to appear that Illinois may have cost UCLA a second straight 30-0 unbeaten season in college basketball, a feat that would have equalled San Francisco's 60 - game all-time winning streak.

Illinois beat the national champions 110-83 in the opening game of the season early in December at Champaign. Since then the top-ranked Bruins have bowled over 12 straight opponents including Marquette, Boston College, Southern California, Arizona, Minnesota, Utah, and California.

Their victory over California came Friday night, 76-54, and highlighted a thin national program on the college hardwoods. No other team in The Associated Press top ten saw action.

Once again it was UCLA's fast break and Gail Goodrich's all-round play that produced a 17-3 outburst in the second half and broke the game wide open.

Goodrich was effective both on defense and offense in leading the Bruins to their 22nd straight victory in Pacific Athletic Conference play. He was high scorer with 23 points and three of his baskets came after he had stolen California passes.

The game was the first of a doubleheader at Los Angeles. Southern California beat Stanford 75-59 in the second game behind Allen Young's 26 points.

Arizona, Washington and East Carolina scored upsets. Arizona surprised Brigham Young 75-73 at Tucson behind Warren Rustand's 27 points. The Huskies upset Oregon State 79-70 at Seattle led by Steve Olsen's 22 points and East Carolina whipped the Citadel 75-69 at Wilmington, N.C. behind Jerry Woodside's 23 points.

Princeton's All-America Bill Bradley became the first Ivy Leaguer ever to score 2,000 career points as he flipped 41 against Columbia, leading the Tigers to a 78-68 victory over Columbia in New York. Cornell stayed on top of the Ivy loop, however, by defeating Penn at Ithaca 76-65. The Big Red is 4-0 in league play, Princeton is 3-0. They play tonight at Ithaca to decide first place.

Two free throws by George Fisher in the last 34 seconds gave Utah a 97-90 triumph over Arizona State to snap a 22-game home winning streak for the Sun Devils at Tempe. Fisher scored 29 points to lead the Utes.

Two foul shots by Bill Gillespie with just four seconds on the clock gave Montana State an 82-79 triumph over Idaho. Colorado State U. beat Idaho State 64-57 at Pocatello and Weber upped its record to 12-1 by defeating Portland State 100-54 at Ogden.

Holy Cross beat Dartmouth 93-74, Boston College took Colby 89-54, Centenary downed Oglethorpe 61-49, Rutgers edged Bucknell 70-66 and Seattle crushed West Texas 103-57 in other games.

One Change Certain

Substitute Rule Sifted By NCAA

By BEN FUNK

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—College coaches almost certainly will be able to play honest, two-platoon football next season.

They probably will not get the blank check for free and unlimited substitution they have demanded for a dozen years. But the wierd spectacle of a team deliberately jumping offsides or delaying the game to beat the rule apparently will be seen no more.

This seemed a sure bet today as the Football Rules Comittee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association began its second day of secret sessions.

After about eight hours of debate Friday, the committee threw out all except two proposals for changes in the substitution rule.

One would bring back the unrestricted rule in effect prior to 1953. This one is backed by 90 per cent of the nation's coaches.

The other would allow substitution of full platoons whenever the ball changes hands and the replacement of two players at any time.

The comittee members have been told not to express their opinions outside the meeting room. But an off-the-record sampling of sentiment indicated that the second rule is the one likely to pass.

Many administrators and athletic directors feel that what the coaches want is not necessarily best for the game. Some, like committee Chairman Ivan Williamson, believe that a player is best served if he is taught to play the game both ways.

But the demands for two-platoon football is so great the committee will go along with it.

The rule expected to pass would kill the gimmick coaches used last year to get in their defensive units on fourth down.

Platoon substitution was allowed only between quarters and while the clock was stopped. Rather than waste a time out, coaches ordered a deliberate rule violation and took a five-yard penalty to stop the clock and switch units before punting.

The proposed rule, Williamson said, will require more coaching of offensive teams on punt coverage but will eliminate the need for cheating on the rule.

Williamson, while doubting that the committee would make the coaches "really happy," said he thought this rule would be well received.

The committee defeated by a 13-8 vote a proposal that coarhes be allowed to confer with one of their players on the sidelines during a charged time out.

NCB Boosts Investment In AFL On TV Rights

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. has increased its investment in the American Football League to more than $43 million with a contract giving the NBC the television rights to AFL championship and All-Star games for the next five years.

The network purchased the five-year rights for more than $7 million Friday night. NBC previously concluded a five-year, $36 million investment in regular season AFL games.

The latest contract was negotiated during the AFL's winter meetings and announced by Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president of NBC Sports. The new contract calls for a sliding scale, with $850,000 reportedly allotted to the 1965 title game and the figure increasing to an estimated $2.2 million in the fifth year.

Proceeds of the playoff and all-star games will go toward the player pension plan, making payments comparable to those in the National Football League.

The NFL has one year to go on a two-year, $3.6 million television pact with the Columbia Broadcasting System for its championship playoff. CBS also televises regular-season NFL games at $14.1 million per-year.

In another development Friday, the AFL players came up with an idea that could stabilize the winning and losing shares of all major sports events, including football title games and the World Series.

Under the suggestion, a definite amount of television money and gate receipts would be earmarked for the players involved in championships, regardless of the size of the stadium.

The players asked the owners to set aside $625,000 for the players involved. That would provide $375,000 for the winners and $250,000 for the losers, and standardized winning shares of about $9,000 and losing shares of approximately $6,000 each year.

Celtics Whip 76ers; Royals Down Lakers

By The Associated Press

Seven is becoming an unlucky number for the Philadelphia 76ers while the Boston Celtics are quite satisfied with No. 13 today.

The sizzling Celtics won their 13th straight National Basketball Association game Friday night, trimming a Philadelphia club reduced temporarily to seven men by the Wilt Chamberlain trade, 104-95.

The 76ers have dropped two in a row since the All-Star break, when they swapped three players to San Francisco for Chamberlain, who is on a week's leave of absence before reporting to Philadelphia.

The Cincinnati Royals, gamely chasing Boston in the Eastern Division derby, topped the Jerry West-less Los Angeles Lakers 124-106. San Francisco, making its first start since the departure of Chamberlain, bowed to the New York Knickerbockers 89-87 in Friday's other games.

John Havlicek led Boston's third period comeback that wiped out a 10-point Philadelphia lead and carried the Celtics to their 20th triumph in 21 starts. Havlicek hit eight of his 18 points late in the quarter, in which Boston outscored the 76ers 35-18 after trailing 51-41 at halftime.

Sam Jones was high man for the Celtics with 29 points, one less than Philadelphia's Chet Walker.

Without West, who injured his nose Thursday night at Detroit, the Lakers couldn't hold an early lead, falling behind to stay 39-38 when Jerry Lucas completed a three-point play midway in the second period.

Lucas paced the Royals with 29 points and Oscar Roberts added 27. Elgin Baylor's 34 points led the Lakers, coached in the final five minutes by Rudy LaRusso after Fred Schaus was ejected.

West will be back in the Lakers' line-up for Sunday's game at St. Louis.

A goal-tending call against San Francisco at the final buzzer doomed the Warriors to their 12th straight setback. Bob Boozer was awarded the game-winning basket on the infraction.

Nate Thurmond, Chamberlain's 6-foot-11 replacement, scored 21 points for the Western Division tailenders, one less than teammate Guy Rodgers. The Knicks, who blew a 14-point lead in the last seven minutes, were paced by Boozer and Willis Reed, with 15 points apiece.

South Side Wrestlers In 5th Win

South Side's wrestling team eked out a 30-24 victory over South Hills Friday night on the South Side mats.

Three pins, one a first period fall recorded by Tom McCloskey, 154-pound grappler, proved the difference for the Rams who pushed their record to 5-1 for the season.

McCloskey disposed of his opponent in 40 seconds while heavyweight John Wright recorded a fall in 2:20 and Jerry Krizan, 103 - pounder, gained a pin in 3:20.

Decisions were picked up by Jerry Reed at 112 and Rich Andrews in the 138-pound match. Paul Rambo, South Side's 95-pounder, won by forfeit while Kit Hughes (120) battled to a draw.

AFL All-Stars Clash At Houston

Player Pension Figured Big Loser In Game Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The player pension fund figures to be the big loser in today's American Football League all-star game shifted from New Orleans to Houston because 21 Negro players complained of racial discrimination.

The winning players still get $700 each and each loser $500. Those figures would have been the same in the huge Sugar Bowl where 65,000 had been expected or at Jeppesen Stadium with its smaller capacity of 35,000.

A television payment of $75,000 from the American Broadcasting Co. was enough to take care of the major expenses but the gate receipts naturally had to be much lower.

The game was to be televised nationally at 2 p.m. (EST) with the Houston area blacked out.

The game gave Sid Gillman and his San Diego Chargers a chance to get even for some of the indignities suffered in Buffalo Dec. 26 when the Bills beat the Chargers 20-7 for the league championship.

The West squad was knee deep with Chargers and the East was loaded with Buffalo players.

The East team had 10 Buffalo players. Coach Lou Saban of the Bills also had nine members of the Boston Patriots who carried him right down to the wire before losing the Eastern Division championship. Houston had six All-Stars and New York four.

The Western team was made up of the 11 members of the Chargers, 10 from Kansas City, and four each from Oakland and Denver.

The game gave the fans a chance to compare the selections of the pickers who named Babe Parilli of Boston as quarterback on all of the all-star teams and overlooked Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs who was the statistical leader. Dawson had his big chance to make the boys look bad.

The East never has won this game, first played in 1961. The West rolled up 47-27 and 21-14 scores in the first two contents and then just squeaked through last year at San Diego, 27-24, on the final play.

Six departmental leaders in the season's statistics played in the game. In addition to Dawson, the top passer, the West had the league's best punter in Jim Fraser of Denver, the East boasted the top scorer in Gino Cappelletti of Boston who set a new record with 155 points, the record-breaking pass catcher in Charlie Hennigan of Houston, the top rusher in Buffalo's Cookie Gilchrist, and the leader in interceptions, Dainard Paulson of New York.

Browns Quarterback Due For Examination

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Ryan, Cleveland Browns quarterback who suffered a shoulder separation in the Pro Bowl game last Sunday, will be examined here Monday to determine if surgery on the injured right shoulder is necessary.

Reached at his home in Houston, Texas, Friday night, Ryan said a surgeon there thought an operation was needed.

"If I could, I'd be in the hospital having it done right now," said Ryan. "Art Modell (Browns president) thought that I should come to Cleveland for further tests."

Ryan will be examined by Dr. Vic Ippolito, physician for the Browns.

34 Champs Honored At Ohio Awards Fete

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Autograph hunters found rich hunting and stars from widely-varying sports shared experiences.

That was the Columbus Touchdown Club's annual awards dinner Friday night with 34 champions in various athletic fields.

From young amateur Don Schollander, an 18-year - old swimmer, to Hamilton Fish, a 1908 captain of Harvard University's football team, the stars received awards for top performances during 1964 or honors for past glory.

Schollander, Associated Press male athlete of the year, received a trophy for 1964's top athletic performance, winning four Olympic Gold Medals in swimming, and also was honored as swimmer of the year.

Other top trophies went to quarterback John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts as the outstanding professional football player, to quarterback Bob Timberlake of Michigan as the outstanding college football player and to outfielder Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankess as athlete of the decade.

Not present to receive trophies were Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame for the best football team and college coach of the year, and Jerry Rhome of Tulsa University for the best college football passing record.

Alabama's Joe Namath, who signed with the New York Jets of the American Football League, was honored as the best professional passing prospect—and was kidded by fellow athletes from all fields throughout the evening for his rich reward.

Others honored included Olympic Gold Medal winners Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, Billy Mills of the U.S. Marines, Bob Schul of Ohio's Miami University and Henry Carr of Arizona State, all trackmen, and Bob Webster of Michigan and Ken Sitzberger of Indiana, both divers.

When Mills was called up, a movie of his dramatic 10,000 meter Olympic victory was shown.

"I just ran the race all over," Mills said, then added: "That's one of the few races I ever won."

Ellis Pacing San Diego On Score Of 131

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Any golfer knows golf can be a fiendish thing.

There's the case of Gene Littler. He shoots a 62, nine big strokes under par. Then he has 70, one under par.

So is Littler leading the field to begin the third round of the $34,500 San Diego Open tournament Saturday?

No. Second place.

In the front position was Wes Ellis Jr., of West Caldwell, N.J., with rounds of 66-65—131, as play resumed at the par 35-36—71 Stardust Country Club. Littler trailed with 62-70—132.

The third round promised a struggle between the well-known and the less-known pros.

Tied at 133 were Tony Lema, California's British Open ruler, and Doug Wysong, from McKinney, Tex., 30 miles north of Dallas.

In the 134 group were seasoned Doug Ford, Charley Sifford, Bud Holscher and Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass.

2 Players Cleared

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A no bill by the Trumbull County Grand Jury has cleared two Niles McKinley High School football players of charges of raping a 12-year-old Niles girl. The cases of the boys, Ephraim Ellison and Melvin Dixon, both 18, of Niles, were among 51 no billed Friday. The two backfield stars had pleaded innocent and asked to be bound over to the Grand Jury last October.

Princeton Star Bags 2,000th As Game's Stopped

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Bradley, the star of the Princeton basketball team, flipped in a jump shot against Columbia Friday night that brought the game to a sudden halt and threw just about everybody on the court into a state of confusion.

As soon as the 25-footer went in, the horn sounded. Everyone stopped. They stood around for a few seconds with the referees and coaches appearing the most puzzled.

Finally, someone at the scorer's table let Referee Lou Eisenstein in on the secret. The basket had made Bradley the first Ivy Leaguer in history to score 2,000 points in a career.

Eisenstein, taking command of the situation, marched to the center of the floor, signaled for silence and — in place of the public address system, which wasn't working — announced Bradley's achievement to the 3,023 persons crowded into the small Columbia gym and to the local television audience.

Bradley, the nation's fourth highest scorer, poured in 41 points altogether in the 78-68 victory, giving him a career total of 2,022 and making him the 16th major college player to reach that plateau in three years.

Bruins Rack Up 12 Straight

Illinois May Have Spoiled UCLA 2nd 30-Win Streak

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

More and more it is beginning to appear that Illinois may have cost UCLA a second straight 30-0 unbeaten season in college basketball, a feat that would have equalled San Francisco's 60 - game all-time winning streak.

Illinois beat the national champions 110-83 in the opening game of the season early in December at Champaign. Since then the top-ranked Bruins have bowled over 12 straight opponents including Marquette, Boston College, Southern California, Arizona, Minnesota, Utah, and California.

Their victory over California came Friday night, 76-54, and highlighted a thin national program on the college hardwoods. No other team in The Associated Press top ten saw action.

Once again it was UCLA's fast break and Gail Goodrich's all-round play that produced a 17-3 outburst in the second half and broke the game wide open.

Goodrich was effective both on defense and offense in leading the Bruins to their 22nd straight victory in Pacific Athletic Conference play. He was high scorer with 23 points and three of his baskets came after he had stolen California passes.

The game was the first of a doubleheader at Los Angeles. Southern California beat Stanford 75-59 in the second game behind Allen Young's 26 points.

Arizona, Washington and East Carolina scored upsets. Arizona surprised Brigham Young 75-73 at Tucson behind Warren Rustand's 27 points. The Huskies upset Oregon State 79-70 at Seattle led by Steve Olsen's 22 points and East Carolina whipped the Citadel 75-69 at Wilmington, N.C. behind Jerry Woodside's 23 points.

Princeton's All-America Bill Bradley became the first Ivy Leaguer ever to score 2,000 career points as he flipped 41 against Columbia, leading the Tigers to a 78-68 victory over Columbia in New York. Cornell stayed on top of the Ivy loop, however, by defeating Penn at Ithaca 76-65. The Big Red is 4-0 in league play, Princeton is 3-0. They play tonight at Ithaca to decide first place.

Two free throws by George Fisher in the last 34 seconds gave Utah a 97-90 triumph over Arizona State to snap a 22-game home winning streak for the Sun Devils at Tempe. Fisher scored 29 points to lead the Utes.

Two foul shots by Bill Gillespie with just four seconds on the clock gave Montana State an 82-79 triumph over Idaho. Colorado State U. beat Idaho State 64-57 at Pocatello and Weber upped its record to 12-1 by defeating Portland State 100-54 at Ogden.

Holy Cross beat Dartmouth 93-74, Boston College took Colby 89-54, Centenary downed Oglethorpe 61-49, Rutgers edged Bucknell 70-66 and Seattle crushed West Texas 103-57 in other games.

One Change Certain

Substitute Rule Sifted By NCAA

By BEN FUNK

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—College coaches almost certainly will be able to play honest, two-platoon football next season.

They probably will not get the blank check for free and unlimited substitution they have demanded for a dozen years. But the wierd spectacle of a team deliberately jumping offsides or delaying the game to beat the rule apparently will be seen no more.

This seemed a sure bet today as the Football Rules Comittee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association began its second day of secret sessions.

After about eight hours of debate Friday, the committee threw out all except two proposals for changes in the substitution rule.

One would bring back the unrestricted rule in effect prior to 1953. This one is backed by 90 per cent of the nation's coaches.

The other would allow substitution of full platoons whenever the ball changes hands and the replacement of two players at any time.

The comittee members have been told not to express their opinions outside the meeting room. But an off-the-record sampling of sentiment indicated that the second rule is the one likely to pass.

Many administrators and athletic directors feel that what the coaches want is not necessarily best for the game. Some, like committee Chairman Ivan Williamson, believe that a player is best served if he is taught to play the game both ways.

But the demands for two-platoon football is so great the committee will go along with it.

The rule expected to pass would kill the gimmick coaches used last year to get in their defensive units on fourth down.

Platoon substitution was allowed only between quarters and while the clock was stopped. Rather than waste a time out, coaches ordered a deliberate rule violation and took a five-yard penalty to stop the clock and switch units before punting.

The proposed rule, Williamson said, will require more coaching of offensive teams on punt coverage but will eliminate the need for cheating on the rule.

Williamson, while doubting that the committee would make the coaches "really happy," said he thought this rule would be well received.

The committee defeated by a 13-8 vote a proposal that coarhes be allowed to confer with one of their players on the sidelines during a charged time out.

NCB Boosts Investment In AFL On TV Rights

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON (AP) — The National Broadcasting Co. has increased its investment in the American Football League to more than $43 million with a contract giving the NBC the television rights to AFL championship and All-Star games for the next five years.

The network purchased the five-year rights for more than $7 million Friday night. NBC previously concluded a five-year, $36 million investment in regular season AFL games.

The latest contract was negotiated during the AFL's winter meetings and announced by Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president of NBC Sports. The new contract calls for a sliding scale, with $850,000 reportedly allotted to the 1965 title game and the figure increasing to an estimated $2.2 million in the fifth year.

Proceeds of the playoff and all-star games will go toward the player pension plan, making payments comparable to those in the National Football League.

The NFL has one year to go on a two-year, $3.6 million television pact with the Columbia Broadcasting System for its championship playoff. CBS also televises regular-season NFL games at $14.1 million per-year.

In another development Friday, the AFL players came up with an idea that could stabilize the winning and losing shares of all major sports events, including football title games and the World Series.

Under the suggestion, a definite amount of television money and gate receipts would be earmarked for the players involved in championships, regardless of the size of the stadium.

The players asked the owners to set aside $625,000 for the players involved. That would provide $375,000 for the winners and $250,000 for the losers, and standardized winning shares of about $9,000 and losing shares of approximately $6,000 each year.

Celtics Whip 76ers; Royals Down Lakers

By The Associated Press

Seven is becoming an unlucky number for the Philadelphia 76ers while the Boston Celtics are quite satisfied with No. 13 today.

The sizzling Celtics won their 13th straight National Basketball Association game Friday night, trimming a Philadelphia club reduced temporarily to seven men by the Wilt Chamberlain trade, 104-95.

The 76ers have dropped two in a row since the All-Star break, when they swapped three players to San Francisco for Chamberlain, who is on a week's leave of absence before reporting to Philadelphia.

The Cincinnati Royals, gamely chasing Boston in the Eastern Division derby, topped the Jerry West-less Los Angeles Lakers 124-106. San Francisco, making its first start since the departure of Chamberlain, bowed to the New York Knickerbockers 89-87 in Friday's other games.

John Havlicek led Boston's third period comeback that wiped out a 10-point Philadelphia lead and carried the Celtics to their 20th triumph in 21 starts. Havlicek hit eight of his 18 points late in the quarter, in which Boston outscored the 76ers 35-18 after trailing 51-41 at halftime.

Sam Jones was high man for the Celtics with 29 points, one less than Philadelphia's Chet Walker.

Without West, who injured his nose Thursday night at Detroit, the Lakers couldn't hold an early lead, falling behind to stay 39-38 when Jerry Lucas completed a three-point play midway in the second period.

Lucas paced the Royals with 29 points and Oscar Roberts added 27. Elgin Baylor's 34 points led the Lakers, coached in the final five minutes by Rudy LaRusso after Fred Schaus was ejected.

West will be back in the Lakers' line-up for Sunday's game at St. Louis.

A goal-tending call against San Francisco at the final buzzer doomed the Warriors to their 12th straight setback. Bob Boozer was awarded the game-winning basket on the infraction.

Nate Thurmond, Chamberlain's 6-foot-11 replacement, scored 21 points for the Western Division tailenders, one less than teammate Guy Rodgers. The Knicks, who blew a 14-point lead in the last seven minutes, were paced by Boozer and Willis Reed, with 15 points apiece.

South Side Wrestlers In 5th Win

South Side's wrestling team eked out a 30-24 victory over South Hills Friday night on the South Side mats.

Three pins, one a first period fall recorded by Tom McCloskey, 154-pound grappler, proved the difference for the Rams who pushed their record to 5-1 for the season.

McCloskey disposed of his opponent in 40 seconds while heavyweight John Wright recorded a fall in 2:20 and Jerry Krizan, 103 - pounder, gained a pin in 3:20.

Decisions were picked up by Jerry Reed at 112 and Rich Andrews in the 138-pound match. Paul Rambo, South Side's 95-pounder, won by forfeit while Kit Hughes (120) battled to a draw.

AFL All-Stars Clash At Houston

Player Pension Figured Big Loser In Game Today

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The player pension fund figures to be the big loser in today's American Football League all-star game shifted from New Orleans to Houston because 21 Negro players complained of racial discrimination.

The winning players still get $700 each and each loser $500. Those figures would have been the same in the huge Sugar Bowl where 65,000 had been expected or at Jeppesen Stadium with its smaller capacity of 35,000.

A television payment of $75,000 from the American Broadcasting Co. was enough to take care of the major expenses but the gate receipts naturally had to be much lower.

The game was to be televised nationally at 2 p.m. (EST) with the Houston area blacked out.

The game gave Sid Gillman and his San Diego Chargers a chance to get even for some of the indignities suffered in Buffalo Dec. 26 when the Bills beat the Chargers 20-7 for the league championship.

The West squad was knee deep with Chargers and the East was loaded with Buffalo players.

The East team had 10 Buffalo players. Coach Lou Saban of the Bills also had nine members of the Boston Patriots who carried him right down to the wire before losing the Eastern Division championship. Houston had six All-Stars and New York four.

The Western team was made up of the 11 members of the Chargers, 10 from Kansas City, and four each from Oakland and Denver.

The game gave the fans a chance to compare the selections of the pickers who named Babe Parilli of Boston as quarterback on all of the all-star teams and overlooked Len Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs who was the statistical leader. Dawson had his big chance to make the boys look bad.

The East never has won this game, first played in 1961. The West rolled up 47-27 and 21-14 scores in the first two contents and then just squeaked through last year at San Diego, 27-24, on the final play.

Six departmental leaders in the season's statistics played in the game. In addition to Dawson, the top passer, the West had the league's best punter in Jim Fraser of Denver, the East boasted the top scorer in Gino Cappelletti of Boston who set a new record with 155 points, the record-breaking pass catcher in Charlie Hennigan of Houston, the top rusher in Buffalo's Cookie Gilchrist, and the leader in interceptions, Dainard Paulson of New York.

Browns Quarterback Due For Examination

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Ryan, Cleveland Browns quarterback who suffered a shoulder separation in the Pro Bowl game last Sunday, will be examined here Monday to determine if surgery on the injured right shoulder is necessary.

Reached at his home in Houston, Texas, Friday night, Ryan said a surgeon there thought an operation was needed.

"If I could, I'd be in the hospital having it done right now," said Ryan. "Art Modell (Browns president) thought that I should come to Cleveland for further tests."

Ryan will be examined by Dr. Vic Ippolito, physician for the Browns.

34 Champs Honored At Ohio Awards Fete

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Autograph hunters found rich hunting and stars from widely-varying sports shared experiences.

That was the Columbus Touchdown Club's annual awards dinner Friday night with 34 champions in various athletic fields.

From young amateur Don Schollander, an 18-year - old swimmer, to Hamilton Fish, a 1908 captain of Harvard University's football team, the stars received awards for top performances during 1964 or honors for past glory.

Schollander, Associated Press male athlete of the year, received a trophy for 1964's top athletic performance, winning four Olympic Gold Medals in swimming, and also was honored as swimmer of the year.

Other top trophies went to quarterback John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts as the outstanding professional football player, to quarterback Bob Timberlake of Michigan as the outstanding college football player and to outfielder Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankess as athlete of the decade.

Not present to receive trophies were Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame for the best football team and college coach of the year, and Jerry Rhome of Tulsa University for the best college football passing record.

Alabama's Joe Namath, who signed with the New York Jets of the American Football League, was honored as the best professional passing prospect—and was kidded by fellow athletes from all fields throughout the evening for his rich reward.

Others honored included Olympic Gold Medal winners Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, Billy Mills of the U.S. Marines, Bob Schul of Ohio's Miami University and Henry Carr of Arizona State, all trackmen, and Bob Webster of Michigan and Ken Sitzberger of Indiana, both divers.

When Mills was called up, a movie of his dramatic 10,000 meter Olympic victory was shown.

"I just ran the race all over," Mills said, then added: "That's one of the few races I ever won."

Ellis Pacing San Diego On Score Of 131

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Any golfer knows golf can be a fiendish thing.

There's the case of Gene Littler. He shoots a 62, nine big strokes under par. Then he has 70, one under par.

So is Littler leading the field to begin the third round of the $34,500 San Diego Open tournament Saturday?

No. Second place.

In the front position was Wes Ellis Jr., of West Caldwell, N.J., with rounds of 66-65—131, as play resumed at the par 35-36—71 Stardust Country Club. Littler trailed with 62-70—132.

The third round promised a struggle between the well-known and the less-known pros.

Tied at 133 were Tony Lema, California's British Open ruler, and Doug Wysong, from McKinney, Tex., 30 miles north of Dallas.

In the 134 group were seasoned Doug Ford, Charley Sifford, Bud Holscher and Jay Dolan of Leicester, Mass.

Princeton Star Bags 2,000th As Game's Stopped

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Bradley, the star of the Princeton basketball team, flipped in a jump shot against Columbia Friday night that brought the game to a sudden halt and threw just about everybody on the court into a state of confusion.

As soon as the 25-footer went in, the horn sounded. Everyone stopped. They stood around for a few seconds with the referees and coaches appearing the most puzzled.

Finally, someone at the scorer's table let Referee Lou Eisenstein in on the secret. The basket had made Bradley the first Ivy Leaguer in history to score 2,000 points in a career.

Eisenstein, taking command of the situation, marched to the center of the floor, signaled for silence and — in place of the public address system, which wasn't working — announced Bradley's achievement to the 3,023 persons crowded into the small Columbia gym and to the local television audience.

Bradley, the nation's fourth highest scorer, poured in 41 points altogether in the 78-68 victory, giving him a career total of 2,022 and making him the 16th major college player to reach that plateau in three years.

Schools Need 2 Boiler Firemen

Because of a new requirement and a death, two licensed boiler firemen are needed in city schools, Supt. Paul H. Blair said today.

The state now requires the school system to have a licensed fireman at Memorial Auditorium for the first time, Blair said.

The recent death of Loren Griffin, boiler fireman at Westgate, created the second vacancy.

The Board of Education at its meeting Jan. 4 authorized the transfer of Oliver Lunger, high school fireman, to the Westgate post when a qualified replacement can be found for the high school.

Qualified applicants may contact the superintendent's office for information, Blair said.

Because there is no pressing business, the school board will not meet Monday night, he said.

Schools Need 2 Boiler Firemen

Because of a new requirement and a death, two licensed boiler firemen are needed in city schools, Supt. Paul H. Blair said today.

The state now requires the school system to have a licensed fireman at Memorial Auditorium for the first time, Blair said.

The recent death of Loren Griffin, boiler fireman at Westgate, created the second vacancy.

The Board of Education at its meeting Jan. 4 authorized the transfer of Oliver Lunger, high school fireman, to the Westgate post when a qualified replacement can be found for the high school.

Qualified applicants may contact the superintendent's office for information, Blair said.

Because there is no pressing business, the school board will not meet Monday night, he said.

"My wife is coming in today for shopping money—be firm with her, will you?"

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 1965. There are 349 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1919, the Nebraska Legislature voted to ratify the 18th Amendment, the 36th state to do so, thereby launching nationwide prohibition.

On this date

In 1778, France recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1883, the Pendleton Act — the foundation of the present Civil Service system—went into effect.

In 1892, United States Marines landed in Hawaii when the royal government was threatened by a revolution.

In 1917, the hero of the battle of Manila Bay, Adm. George Dewey, died.

In 1944, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower arrived in London to take command of Allied Forces.

Ten years ago — Plans were announced for an international conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy in Geneva the following August.

Five years ago — A Civil Aeronautics Board hearing in Miami was told that the crash of a National Airlines plane two months before in the Gulf of Mexico in which 42 died may have been caused by a bomb.

One year ago — Arab heads of state approved a project for Arab development of Jordan River waters to counteract Israeli plans for diverting the waters to irrigate the Negev Desert.

If you are using white sauce in a make-ahead casserole that is to be refrigerated one day and reheated the next, it might be well to make that sauce just a little thinner than usual. We suggest this because freezing and reheating gives extra thickness to a sauce made with flour.

Junior Editors Quiz on VOLCANOS

QUESTION: Can a volcano erupt underwater?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Yes. Deep inside the earth lie masses of rock so hot as to be in the form of a fiery liquid called magma. Magma contains explosive gases which press upward. When there are cracks or openings in the earth's surface, molten magma pours up as a volcano and shoots out. Its cooling stage is known as lava, which piles up around the volcano and can build into a tall, cone-shaped mountain. In the case of a crack or weakness in the earth's crust covered by ocean water, the same thing can happen. With tons of sea water above, the volcano can not shoot its lava so high. Yet a sub-sea eruption can pile lava up into a mountain form (upper right), and if this builds above the surface, a new island will appear in the ocean. A great many oceanic islands, especially in the Pacific, have been formed in this way. In warm waters, after an island appears, coral reefs begin to grow around its edges. Through changes below, many such islands have sunken slightly. But the fringe of coral reef will continue to grow up to the water's edge. Debris and wave action will build it up and make enough soil for palms to grow and there will be a beautiful South Seas "atoll" with an inner lagoon of quiet water, and natives singing and dancing on the beach.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is a particularly good picture to color. Make the natives' skins red brown and the dancing girl's skirt yellow. The water in the lagoon should be an intense turquoise blue.

★ ★ ★

If you are using white sauce in a make-ahead casserole that is to be refrigerated one day and reheated the next, it might be well to make that sauce just a little thinner than usual. We suggest this because freezing and reheating gives extra thickness to a sauce made with flour.

Junior Editors Quiz on VOLCANOS

QUESTION: Can a volcano erupt underwater?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Yes. Deep inside the earth lie masses of rock so hot as to be in the form of a fiery liquid called magma. Magma contains explosive gases which press upward. When there are cracks or openings in the earth's surface, molten magma pours up as a volcano and shoots out. Its cooling stage is known as lava, which piles up around the volcano and can build into a tall, cone-shaped mountain. In the case of a crack or weakness in the earth's crust covered by ocean water, the same thing can happen. With tons of sea water above, the volcano can not shoot its lava so high. Yet a sub-sea eruption can pile lava up into a mountain form (upper right), and if this builds above the surface, a new island will appear in the ocean. A great many oceanic islands, especially in the Pacific, have been formed in this way. In warm waters, after an island appears, coral reefs begin to grow around its edges. Through changes below, many such islands have sunken slightly. But the fringe of coral reef will continue to grow up to the water's edge. Debris and wave action will build it up and make enough soil for palms to grow and there will be a beautiful South Seas "atoll" with an inner lagoon of quiet water, and natives singing and dancing on the beach.

★ ★ ★

Juvenile Problems Cited By 4 Attorneys In Forum

Various methods and aspects of handling juvenile behavioral problems were discussed by a panel of four attorneys Friday as the Lions Club conducted the second in a series of six programs on juvenile delinquency.

Participating in the forum at the Travelers Hotel were Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis G. William Brokaw, former prosecutor, Delmar T. O'Hara, former state representative, and Bernard Fineman, who spoke on the problems confronting counsel defending juvenile offenders.

—:—

RALPH Compa, program chairman, announced Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin will outline his views at next Friday's meeting.

Each of the attorneys spoke briefly and then answered questions.

Bettis led off the discussion, explaining the program established in his office to deal with adult cases involving juveniles and to handle juvenile cases.

Attys. Brokaw and O'Hara discussed general aspects of the problem. Atty. Fineman outlined some of the many facets facing defense lawyers.

In previous years, Atty. Bettis said Judge Tobin through no fault of his own often had to serve as prosecutor, defense counsel and judge.

—:—

WITH three special assistants who will help handle cases involving juveniles, an arrangement has been made with Juvenile Court that in cases against adults involving juveniles, such as non - support, the complaining witness will be sent to the prosecutor's office.

If there are sufficient grounds for a complaint, the office will prepare the affidavit and follow through, Bettis explained.

However, in cases in which juveniles are directly involved, the office will not handle the case unless it is contested.

Sometimes in the past the prosecutor's office has not been notified of a case until it is ready for trial and then a continuance must be sought to confer with witnesses. "That's aggravating to everyone" because of the waste of time, Bettis declared.

—:—

IN RESPONSE to a later question, Bettis said there is no agency in the county devoted exclusively to juvenile problems. They must be handled through other organizations which Atty. O'Hara discussed.

He said it has been his experience that "parents will agree to anything" to get their children out of detention. However, since they are not parties to the case, they cannot be held in contempt of court if the children do not live up to the terms imposed on them.

The prosecutor declared he will seek to have parents sign agreements to live up to their end of any agreements reached. If they then violate the terms, Bettis said he will seek to have them charged with contempt of court.

—:—

"IF PARENTS aren't willing to help their own children, then I believe they should be punished," he declared.

In his comments, Brokaw said plans are being discussed for the federal government to spend money to combat the problem. "I don't believe, however, that it is one of dollars and cents."

"Why all the fuss over the small percentage of juveniles who get into trouble? Most juveniles are a fine bunch of people."

The former prosecutor said he doesn't pay too much attention to statistics. Recalling that Police Chief Americo Radeschi last week cited a 9 per cent increase last year in juvenile crime nationally, Brokaw said he wonders how that compared with the increase in population.

—:—

TWO FACTORS primarily are responsible for more juveniles getting into scrapes, Brokaw said, referring to autos and teenage drinking.

"Most kids are wild to drive a car," he said, citing the case of one boy who scrubbed floors to get the money to pay a $25 fine for a traffic violation rather than lose his license for 30 days.

Brokaw emphasized that juveniles involved in traffic violations or wrecks are not necessarily delinquents.

Youngsters manage to get hold of beer or liquor which is the secondary cause of their scrapes, he continued.

—:—

BROKAW said at least 75 per cent and probably closer to 90 per cent of the adults who commit felonies had been drinking.

Many programs have been set up by churches, service clubs and veterans' organizations for youth, Atty. O'Hara pointed out. However, except in larger cities most do not have the trained personnel to handle the delinquents.

Parental supervision is important but the county and state must deal with those juveniles who can't be controlled by their parents, he said.

"There's a lot of misunderstanding between juvenile delinquency and juvenile carelessness and negligence," O'Hara said.

—:—

THE CHIEF problem is in dealing with delinquent adults, the attorney said. "If that can be attacked, it would be a big factor in reducing juvenile delinquency."

Borderline cases in the county can be sent to the juvenile receiving home in East Palestine and placed in foster homes, but it sometimes is difficult to find families willing to act as foster parents.

He conceded that state institutions often are "training centers" for delinquents rather than helping youngsters solve their problems.

Atty. Fineman said prior to 1963 accused juvenile delinquents had virtually no constitutional rights and no right to counsel if kept in detention.

—:—

IN 1963, the State Legislature approved a law allowing the accused delinquents to retain counsel and permission was given counsel to inspect records.

However, one of the toughest problems from a defense attorney's point of view is that juveniles have no right to a jury trial.

"Everyone has made juvenile delinquency a social problem. Often the attorney doesn't know whether his duty is to the court, social agencies, parents or youngsters."

Very few lawyers are willing to take juvenile cases, Atty. Fineman said. He termed the lawyers who handle them as "legal pediatricians."

Another problem, he said, is whether freedom of speech should prevail concerning publication of juvenile names or try to protect the youngsters and keep everything hush-hush.

—:—

JUVENILES have no right to a public hearing, Atty. Fineman continued, and a "veil of secrecy" descends over their cases.

Judges have a right to place juvenile offenders on probation, confine them or fine them.

But one of the questions is whether a youth should be treated as an adult or a juvenile when felonies have been committed.

In response to a question, Atty. Fineman said anyone under 18 is considered a juvenile. However, those 16 or older who commit a felony may be tried as an adult or a juvenile with the final decision resting with the juvenile judge following mental and physical examinations.

Atty. Bettis interposed to explain that a Grand Jury can indict a juvenile for a felony after which the examinations are held and the Juvenile Court decides how the case will be handled.

—:—

ASKED WHAT can be done about adult delinquency, Atty. O'Hara cited several related cases. The same tavern figures in all the cases, he said, and has been in the news for other violations.

"Such places certainly should not be permitted to continue in business. Closing won't make the problem disappear, he conceded, but pointed out such places afford adults and juveniles a place to meet.

Atty. O'Hara also cited parents who permit under-age juveniles to drive their cars or those who have their children purchase cigarettes for them.

Asked if a better method of dealing with juvenile delinquency in the county is needed, Atty. Bettis answered:

"The answer to juvenile offenders can be given in one sentence: It takes a little bit of work."

Richard C. Martin, president, presided. Members were reminded of the first minstrel rehearsal Jan. 26 at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

Most of the money will go to the eight schools supported entirely by the state, but $8.7 million has been earmarked for municipal universities and community colleges.

Briley succeeds Dr. Harold W. Oyster, who resigned to become vice president of the University of Akron. Oyster was appointed chairman when the board was first set up 17 months ago to coordinate higher education in the state. The new chairman is vice-president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. and was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate in 1962.

Gov. James A. Rhodes appointed Ralph Shipley of Canton to take Dr. Oyster's place on the board and Shipley attended his first meeting on the University of Cincinnati campus Friday.

The new budget request is 58 per cent—or $55,475,257—higher than the present budget of $101,151,843 but the board's director-chancellor warned its successors may grow to a $1 billion "within a very few years."

Almost half of the budgeted money would go to Ohio State, the state's largest university. Ohio State is to get $33,330,000 in the next school year and $35,460,000 in 1966-67.

The new Cleveland State University, not yet in operation, would receive $1,530,000 for 1965-66 and $8,450,000 for 1966-67 goes to the eight schools supported entirely by the state, including Cleveland and the OSU-Miami University branch at Dayton. In addition these schools would get $2,916,200 for 1965-66 and $4,073,400 for 1966-67 for operation of their 33 branches throughout the state.

The three municipal universities—Akron, Cincinnati and Toledo, would receive a total of $2,740,000 next year and $2,900,000 the following year. Other appropriations are for the community colleges of Cuyahoga and Lorain and the new Toledo Medical College.

Following are budget estimates for the state-supported schools:

Bowling Green State University, $5,955,000 for 1965-66 and $6,341,000 for 1966-67; Central State College, $1,965,000 and $2,070,000; Cleveland, $1,530,000 and $2,040,000; OSU - Miami Branch at Dayton, $1,075,000 and $1,972,000; Kent State University, $8,588,000 and $9,331,000; Miami University, $6,082,500 and $6,423,000; OSU, $33,330,000 and $35,460,000, and Ohio University, $7,685,000 and $8,450,000.

DAMPNESS IS BAD

Dampness is very dangerous in your home because it encourages that dreaded insect, the destructive termite. The damper it gets, the more termites will be swarming in unprotected homes. STATUS LOSER

According to a ruling by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, loss caused by termites is not deductible on your income tax. This had been an allowable deduction until recent years . . . and this ruling might be reversed if tested in court. At present, however, the ruling is No.

Insects AND YOUR HEALTH

DAMPNESS IS BAD

Dampness is very dangerous in your home because it encourages that dreaded insect, the destructive termite. The damper it gets, the more termites will be swarming in unprotected homes. Check your home very carefully and try to eliminate dark, damp places. Even concrete is not safe. Did you know that termites can eat through as much as five inches of concrete?

INTERESTING EXHIBIT

We can show you a very interesting exhibit we have prepared on the termite . . . showing it's habits and the damage it can cause. It's a real "eye opener". We can show you "treated wood" . . . wood that is suposed to be safe from termites and rot . . . that has been ruined by these insects.

STATUS LOSER

According to a ruling by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, loss caused by termites is not deductible on your income tax. This had been an allowable deduction until recent years . . . and this ruling might be reversed if tested in court. At present, however, the ruling is No.
